Actually, if you knew anything about "radio" in general, you would realize that we DO have more than one CB service; matter of fact, there are 5 CB Services.

One (GMRS) requires a license, one that in non-voice (R/C,) and 3 that are open to whomever wants to use them, license-free (CB, FRS, and MURS.)

Get at least a SMALL clue...

well, I have this to say...

I have been blind some 15 years. in all that time, I have not had a paying job. I have sought after one, done the entire job process from beginning to end. there are many reasons for this (some of which are my fault and others due to the nature of the state I live in).

Hey, no prob.

I don't use Morse code, probably never will, unless I get into keyboard Morse.

But I did want the HF access, so I learned Morse code. It was that important to me.

As for what is right, do you know that there are thousands, maybe millions of people who can't pass the writtens? How is it right that we have any testing at all when we discriminate against them?

It isn't an insult to anyone to say that HF access isn't important enough to them that they will take the time and effort to learn Morse code. Ham radio doesn't have to be important to anyone - it's a hobby.

yes it is if the person says it is one right we ALL have mike is to decide for ourselves what is insulting to US

It is an insult to mandate testing in 19th century tech in a service using PUBLICLY own property and claiming to have anything to do with techinal admavncement, esp if I say it is since I am more important than the regs at least on some elvels I am a man not a mindless sheep

the cost what it needed to run the Icom and Yaesu display!

Here's your future of ham radio folks!
OLD FARTS who EAT and SMOKE themselves to death

secondly, both idfents are known by me and both are known to be "from" me.
3. ones net worth per hour is not an indication of employment. just an indication of worth based on skills current at the time.
4. just because I have not had one paying job (of record) does not mean anything given the context of the discussion (which you seemed to have missed).
5. the figure cited above was based on facts known about the particular field of which I have relevant skills (again, not an indication of employment)

you are so damned fast to declare my a liar, yet my own words (then as well as now) do not prove your case.

How do you figure your time is worth $62.00 an hour if you are not employed? When you state that you have not had a paying job of record, are you saying you work under the table? And at $62.00 an hour?

If they did what you want, ham radio would be dead in just a few years.

The primary problem causers in the past and present aren't new hams, they are the old timers who passed all the elements a long time ago.
Maybe it's the cause of their behavior?

I think you hit the nail on the head. he is spouting bullshit and rattling cages in an attempt to elicit an emotional response. well, in the words of the local gang bangers around here: "homie don't play that game!".

not sure what else I can say here, but no matter.

indeed the reason i think the curret wae has gotten quite so out of hand is that at least one of the targets (myself) has responded but not in the manner they wanted or expected so they are engaged on a road of trying to escalate till they get the response they want/need sooner or later something will break perhaps what is left of their minds prehaps something else

I know I have beaten Robeson and I can go teo to teo with Wismen as long as I feel like part of the problem for them is a I guess once they got a response to posting addresses and phone number Wiosmen has been posting my father in law number for several week without him geting a single harrasing call meaning most folks truly don't care who I sleep with enough to bother him

Of course I have always sais the shrillier the arguement the weaker the case

and these guys are sure getting shrill

and presented with the choice of being only unable to use USENET myself or making all the "good" folks jion in being unable to usenet well well, it works with some. after a while though, it ceases to be effective (the tolerance level goes up so to speak).

well, thats not really my particular thing..... I don't mind poking bears

I'd say your in-law has been rather lucky. I have experienced first hand what happens when a phone number gets broadcast across 11 meters (200 hangup calls in less than an hour). the person that caused that situation lost both his phone service and his freedom (for about 9 months) too bad all the trolls drove out all the greybeards. it really would have been nice to have some actual technical discussions with real teeth and real meat in the subjects. anymore, its just the trolls and the never ending battle to keep them under the bridge.

3759. FIGHT THE SPEW! xnews / slrn score file update

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.misc

Source record: 35826
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

The xnews score file which was posted previously has been updated to block some additional free news servers and anonymous remailers.
Google has not been blocked (yet), because the score file is now killing 99% of the spew in the rec.radio.amateur hierarchy.

Xnews is a free news reader which does not have to be installed.
Simply extract it from the zip file and start running xnews.exe.
You can obtain xnews from

http://www.download.com/3000-2164-10144167.html

and you can copy the score file below into score.ini to have an immediately effective filtering system.

An xnews / slrn score file allows you to specify filtering rules for each news group or for a collection of groups. You do that by enclosing the name of the group(s) in square brackets.

After the bracketed name of the groups, you specify a score. I don't bother with elaborate scoring, and instead give all matches a score of -9999. That causes the matching posts to be killed.

So, for all of the rec.radio.amateur hierarchy, plus the flame_fest news group, you can use the following score file (lines starting with "%" are comments). Text case is ignored by default, so "get help" matches "GeT HElp" when specified below. If you don't want to use a rule, simply insert a "%" character as the first character of a rule, or else delete the rule completely.

From what I remember, that's not universally incorrect.

Oh, and I'm taking your apostrophe quiz, and it appears there's an error in the "correct" choice: (B) uses "its" as the contraction for "it is".
So the answer to 17 should be "None of the above". (I scored 100% also.)

Incidental note: I've never understood how people who use "it's" as a possessive never even think to use "hi's" (though some use "her's" and "their's").

I doubt it. The word Allah appears to be a conglomeration of "al elah", BWHAHAHAHA Markie is proud of it!

> get help

You direct the same words at almost everyone who takes the time to mock your many shortcomings; such as your inability to construct logical arguments, your limited vocabulary, your utter failure at projecting even a tiny bit of personality in your writing, the lack of character that prevents you from admitting your mistakes, your total lack of flaming ability, your choice of newsgroups, your hair style, your lisp, your semi-famous effort to conduct a comparative study of the taste of semen, and many others I must elide from this article due to space constraints.

Because of this, the words have lost any effect it might otherwise possess. Because you limply toss it in the ring every time someone gets the better of you - i.e. every time you try your fairy hand against someone who isn't a fellow faggot - you've successfully emasculated the words through overuse.

Also, your use of them are very, very boring.

Here's how Saggytits works, he takes a cut and paste adds a few words to it, and tries to pass it off as his own.

Fuckup Stagger Lee <SLee@houston-hunks.com> proves he's as ignorant of music as he is in everything else when he utters the following stupidity in <k8mn.is.a.god@houston-hunks.com>:

"Eric Clapton even wrote a song about Leila!"

"Stagger Backpedal BOY Lee" <SLee@houston-hunks.com> blathered more idiocy when he tried to backpedal out of his fuckup in message <ab8mq.cant.touch.k8mn@houston-hunks.com>:
"On one of the most complete web sites of Eric Clapton music (http://www.netmusicitalia.it/spot/archivio/v.html), we read that one of the selections is:
2/01 Vidal bagnoschiuma Eric Clapton "Laila" which is, of course, a different composition than the more familiar "Layla" that SWR Boy was trying to discuss. Composed during a Clapton visit to Helsinki, it was inspired by a gracious host named "Laila" -- the wife of then Assistant Ambassador David Heil."

Stupid Lee (Stagger Lee@ houston-hunks.com) provides yet another example of his idiocy in <way.way.beyond.woger@houston-hunks.com>:
"That's because transmission line loss and SWR are not directly related."

Phoenix sweats most but Miami suffers more Wed Jun 14, 4:27 PM ET

NEW YORK (Reuters) - Phoenix on Wednesday was named the sweatiest city in the United States, but Miami topped the list as the most uncomfortable American city due to its mix of humidity and heat.

The fifth annual sweat survey sponsored by Procter & Gamble Co. handed the dubious distinction to the Arizona capital for the third time. El Paso, Texas, earned the title in 2004 and San Antonio, Texas, in 2002.

The study of 100 cities estimates the amount of sweat a person of average weight and height would produce walking around for an hour in the average high temperatures of a particular city during June, July and August.

The latest survey found that the average Phoenix resident produced 26 ounces (0.77 litre) of sweat per hour during a typical summer day last year when the desert city's high temperature averaged 93.3 F (34 C).

It means that in under three hours, Phoenix residents collectively produced enough sweat to fill an Olympic-sized swimming pool, said Jay Gooch, sweat expert at Old Spice, a Procter & Gamble Co. antiperspirant brand.

But Gooch said Phoenix's humidity was only 22 percent, making it much more comfortable than Miami, with average temperatures last year of 83.9 F (29 C) and humidity of 76 percent, according to government figures.

"In Phoenix you sweat much more than in Miami, but it evaporates quickly as it is such dry air so you don't notice as much. In Miami the sweat stays on your skin," said Gooch.

BWHAHAHAHAHAHAHA And smelly Erica Oyen really needs those 5 showers a day!

Where have we heard that, oh, that's right, it's been said to you many times here, Markie.
Your mind was like a soup dish, wide and shallow; it could hold a small amount of nearly anything, but the slightest jarring spilled the soup

Plagiarizing again, Wiseman? You posted two, complete sentences without a single foul word or reference to scatology, so we know you "borrowed" them from somebody your mental superior.

And I suppose that your abuse of everyone in two news groups is okay?
You have abused us all by filling the newsgroups with "get help" posts (about 500 of them so far this month) and driving legitimate posters away. You have been abusing us all since June of last year.

For your own selfish and twisted reasons, you have ruined two news groups in an insane vendetta regarding k4yz, and he hardly ever posts here any longer! Your posts have legally become spam because their BI is well above 20. You have no room to talk about anybody, and are widely regarded as being another deranged user like Wiseman.

Mark is far too stupid to see that what he is doing is spam. In fact, he's far too stupid to even be ashamed of his abuse. He just doesn't get it.
Can't get it.
I'd like to see Woger get this ignoramus booted from his ISP as he threatened. One less Mark = one less rectal cavity on Usenet.
500 posts just THIS MONTH?? That would be at least 33 per day, not counting the other nims Markie uses. I'd bet he posts no less 33 and probably as many as 50 per diem. (Diem means "day", Markie.)
What does he do for employment? (that means a "job", Markie) He's surely not intelligent enough to do much, besides spam Usenet and stalk Steve.

He claimed to work for the government sitting at home as an advisor, then these words and the insistance of a poster in another thread that some how I my posting has rsien to some legal (did he realy mean ilgeal) level of being spam I point out Wismen has aleegedly tried to have me ToS , this is likely a lie OTOH Daveheil claims he has tried and and land shark and prehaps others unknown to me as well have made efforts to me ToSed (without BTW acting aginst Wismen which shows you how bad off they are although I believe Dave has tried to ToS Wismen with little sucess) and yet I am still here posting quite openly from Hughes net under my call letter without the slightest disruption other claim that they have been "bomarded" by more than 5000 get help post accept the number) as a contrast I receive (and without any

Yup, me too. I listen to "A Way With Words," a radio program on KPBS (available streaming at kpbs.org) whose host is language writer Richard Lederer ("Anguished English," "Get Thee To A Punnery," etc). Richard said that "it's" for "its" (possessive) was considered correct until near the end of the 19th century. I didn't know that.

Wrong, stupid. A check of qrz.com shows AB8MQ to hold an Extra Class license, and has since 2002.

these words and the insistance of a poster in another thread that some how I my posting has rsien to some legal (did he realy mean ilgeal) level of being spam I point out Wismen has aleegedly tried to have me ToS , this is likely a lie OTOH Daveheil claims he has tried and alegedly doid Han (something or other the arrl director) and Robeson and land shark and prehaps others unknown to me as well have made efforts to me ToSed (without BTW acting aginst Wismen which shows you how bad off they are although I believe Dave has tried to ToS Wismen with little sucess) and yet I am still here posting quite openly from Hughes net under my call letter without the slightest disruption other claim that they have been "bomarded" by more than 5000 get help post ing the last month (I have not been counting so I will prisionaly accept the number) as a contrast I receive (and without any relationship to the NG more than 1000 spam emails a day trying to sell me Viagara or beast enalregements or golf clubs or god knows what is next,I supect many of us receive simliar levels of true spam

Yes Robeson has quit the feild and as such I really mention him Wismen remains and has posted (based on the fact I respond about 80 perecent of his posts) roughly 600 months in the same time span, and they contain some of the vilest materail it is has been my sorry duty to see, and that behavoir is ACCEPTABLE to those complaining

I doubt that you sent anything they'll take seriously, Woger. The last time you reported me to an NSP, you used an anonymous remailer, and your "complaint" was thrown away by Chris Caputo after he forwarded it to me for my amusement. You screwed up and left your own unique stamp on the anonymous email, and it was obvious that you had sent it.

That was when I outed your Stratuswave account, remember?

The first thing you have to do when you send email to an ISP is to use your real name and email address. Anything else, and the complaint usually gets tossed. Even if you do use your real name, many ISPs have a low level employee manning the abuse account, and it's really hard to get them to take any action on a complaint.

To bypass all of that, most people who are seriously registering a complaint use the U.S. Mail to send a letter to the ISP. The letter gets attention that an email will never get, because most businesses put incoming letters into a tracking system in order to make sure that they are handled properly. The letter also bypasses all of the Internet email blocks and gets into the hands of a real person.

So if you're going to complain with effect, send a well constructed buisness letter to Hughes, and they're likely to respond more favorably (from your viewpoint). I know that tactic worked quite well with Pam Hoffer, for example, because you got dumped by Ovis within days after she was contacted by mail.

Yes, mail is the way to go.

(Hope this helped.)

A necessary preface.....

(It is becoming increasingly difficult to fly the flag for decency and for civilised behaviour in Radio Hammery. Even the Usenet newsgroups dedicated to the cause have degenerated
into a hotbed of abusive onslaughts by those who ought to know better; the Nugatory Numpties who boast of an interest exceeding 10, 20, 30, 40 or even 50 years and yet who have proved themselves incapable of even meeting the trivial exam standards set for 6-year-olds. However, there still exists
the fundamental basis on which Ham Radio is based, and that will never die. This FAQ ("What Is Ham Radio?") will be regularly published and will not be shouted or bullied down. It is important that those of a technical bent, who are the natural seed-corn of Radio Hammery and who gravitate towards us to be the real novitiate, can still find us, (and know that we are still here), their fellows.)

-----ooooo-----

So,.....What is Ham Radio?

Ham Radio is a technical pursuit for those who are interested in the science of radio wave
propagation and who are also interested in the way that their radios function. It has a long-standing tradition of providing a source of engineers who
are born naturals.

Ham Radio awakens in its aficionados a whole-life
fascination with all things technical and gives
an all-abiding curiosity to improve one's scientific knowledge. It's a great swimming pool, please dive in!

This excitement causes a wish to share the experience
with ones fellow man, and shows itself in the gentlemanly traditions of Ham Radio.

Radio Hams are in a unique privileged position in that they can construct and operate their own equipment! No-one else has this privilege. Users, such as broadcasters,
the po lice and armed farces, CBers and mobile phone users have to purchase ready-made gear. Manufacturers are not licensed to operate their gear. Radio Hams
are qualified to design, build and then

operate their own pieces of equipment. They do this
with gusto, and also repair and modify their own equipment. This is a privilege well worth the effort
to gain, and one to be jealously guarded.

The excitement that drives a Radio Ham starts with relatively simple technologies at first, perhaps making his own Wimshurst machine and primary cells. Small pieces
of test equipment follow, possibly multimeters and signal generators. Then comes receivers and transmitters. It is with the latter that communication with like-minded technically motivated people takes off. The scope for technical development grows with the years
and now encompasses DSP and DDS. There is also a great deal of excitement in the areas of computer programming to
be learnt and applied.

The technical excitement motivates Radio Hams to compete with each other to determine who has designed and manufactured
the best-quality station. This competitiveness is found in DXing, competitions and fox-hunts.

-----OOOOO----

However, beware! A Ham Radio licence is such a desirable thing to have that there are large numbers of people who wish to be thought of
as Radio Hams when, in fact, they are nothing of the kind! Usually such people are a variation of the CB Radio hobbyist; they buy their radios off the shelf and send them back to be repaired; they are not interested in technical discussion
and sneer at those who are; they have no idea how their radios work inside and have no wish to find out;
they are free with rather silly personal insults.

These CB types engage in the competitive activities
with their Cheque-Book-purchased off-the-shelf radios
in a forlorn effort to prove that they are Radio Hams.

No _REAL_ Radio Hams are deceived by such people!

-----ooooo-----

One infallible way to disambiguate the CB Radio Hobbyist
from the _REAL_ Radio Ham is to solicit their view of the difference between CB Radio and Ham Radio. A Radio Ham will perceive Ham Radio to be a technical pursuit and will perceive CB Radio to be a social communications facility
no different in essence to a land-line telephone or a GSM mobile in the hands of a 6-year-old. Thus a Radio Ham could also hold a CB licence safe in the knowledge that such a licence says no more about him than having a land-line telephone, whilst continuing to regard Ham Radio as a separate technical pursuit.

A CB Radio hobbyist, on the other hand, sees no difference between a Ham Radio licence and a CB Radio licence. To him, they are sisters-under-the-skin. Wrongly, the CB Radio Hobbyist then tries to classify himself as the equal of the Radio Ham when, in fact, he is nothing of the kind.

Ham Radio is not CB Radio and has no common ground with it! Ham Radio is _THE_ technical pursuit for gentlemen; CB Radio is the operating hobby for those who buy their rigs and equipment off the shelf.

-----ooooo-----

If you are the sort of person who is motivated by a technical interest in how things work; if you took apart malfunctioning clocks, toasters and the like and put them right despite never having seen them working, then a Ham Radio licence is your traditional route! There has never been a shortage of such people, and those who gravitate towards such an interest have always been welcomed into our shacks and their interests fostered. There is not today, nor has there ever been, a need to go out and encourage and press children, children who have never expressed an interest in Ham Radio, to come into our shacks. Such an activity should cause eyebrows to be raised - what normal well-adjusted adults seek the social acquaintance of children?!

-----ooooo-----

Please remember that this FAQ is a _POSITIVE EXHORTATION_ to you to exert yourselves to join our fraternity! (If you find otherwise, then perhaps you are already classing yourself in the mediocre groups of those who are criticised in the FAQ and from whom we _MUST_ dissociate? If so - it's never too late for a re-taxonomisation on your part - there's nothing elitist about us, and we welcome all those who are prepared to put themselves out in order to join our ranks!)

Your definition of ham radio describes probably less than 20% of currently operating hams. Social communication is the heart of ham radio. Maybe technical saavy is the soul. (Newsgroups would necessarily be the colon... and I don't mean ":")

NO, it's not elitist AT ALL to "disambiguate" (is that a word?) between REAL hams and the rest of the freaks and losers that "pose" as hams.

What bullshit.

It's a very big tent and there's room for all.

If I may be so bold as to brag? Stagger Lee described the process quite well, Woger.
I followed Stagger Lee's suggestions insofar as snail mail is concerned and it was I, Woger, who printed out your vile posts about Pam. It was I who mailed them to Pam on a Wednesday. It was Pam who shut off your Ovis account on Friday.
And, Woger, if you don't learn how to conduct yourself accordingly you can expect to be visited by Sgt. Vogler or Chief Stenger once again.

You just don't get it, do you?

You are very kind. However, I shan't stay long (Cue chorus from the very Childish Broadcasters (CBers) criticised in the article) becaue I never intended to call in yesterday.

I'd not even read this group since 17th? March? April?
let alone contributed to it and have been engaged on other projects, primarily preparing my first anthology of poetry for publication. I had some time on my hands yesterday, had a quick look, and there on the front page of Google was a gratuitous unpleasant remark directed at me from the same nasty, sick-minded pervert who has caused me and my family (and, indeed his w*nkmason buddies in the ploddery) so much trauma over the last 4 years. Why that should be the case after an absence by me of many months by me, I do not know, but it shows conclusively that the campaign of harassment originated with him, and him alone, and continues to be motivated by his infantile attention-seeking bile.

As before, I have responded only to defend myself, and have done so by quoting his own nasty remarks back to him.

Anyway having been provoked by his gratuitous and infantile outburst,
I presumed that no-one else had published the FAQ recently and that it would be overdue for republication. We must all remember that Ham Radio is a technical pursuit, and one for which sufficiently interested and motivated 14-year-olds trained themselves. There never has been any need to lower the standards, firstly by the Novice Licence, and latterly by the Fools' Licence. If otherwise-unqualified 14-year-olds can do it, then so can anybody.

Grown-ups who are either too lazy or too stupid, or both, to be able to tackle and then pass the exams that a 6-year old can pass after only two days' tuition are a joke. Grown-ups who beam and preen themselves once having passed the 6-year-olds' are the absolute laughing stock and we should not associate with them in any way. They are not Radio Hams by any stretch of the imagination.

these words and the insistance of a poster in another thread that some how I my posting has rsien to some legal (did he realy mean ilgeal) level of being spam I point out Wismen has aleegedly tried to have me ToS , this is likely a lie OTOH Daveheil claims he has tried and alegedly doid Han (something or other the arrl director) and Robeson and land shark and prehaps others unknown to me as well have made efforts to me ToSed (without BTW acting aginst Wismen which shows you how bad off they are although I believe Dave has tried to ToS Wismen with little sucess) and yet I am still here posting quite openly from Hughes net under my call letter without the slightest disruption other claim that they have been "bomarded" by more than 5000 get help post ing the last month (I have not been counting so I will prisionaly accept the number) as a contrast I receive (and without any relationship to the NG more than 1000 spam emails a day trying to sell me Viagara or beast enalregements or golf clubs or god knows what is next,I supect many of us receive simliar levels of true spam

Yes Robeson has quit the feild and as such I really mention him Wismen remains and has posted (based on the fact I respond about 80 perecent of his posts) roughly 600 months in the same time span, and they contain some of the vilest materail it is has been my sorry duty to see, and that behavoir is ACCEPTABLE to those complaining

I'm Still Spamming

(Elton John/Bernnie Taupin/Mark C. Morgan, kb9rqz)
[From the album "Markie's I.Q. is Too Low For Zero"]

You could never know what it's like
When you marry a jewish/polish transexual bulldyke
And if there's a cold lonely light that shines from you You'll wind up like the wreck I hide behind those sockpuppets I use in newsgroups

And did you think this fool could never win
Well look at me, I'm spamming again and again
I got a taste of love in a simple way
And if you need to know why I'm still spamming Wismen just post away

Don't you know I'm still spamming better than I ever did Deluding myself that I look like a true survivor, whining like a little kid
I'm still spamming after all this time
Picking up the pieces of my life with Wismen on my mind

I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah
I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah

Once I never could hope to win
You post down the road leaving me to spam again
The threats you made were meant to cut me down
And if the newsgroups were just a circus I'd be a clown by now

Don't you know I'm still spamming better than I ever did Deluding myself that I look like a true survivor, whining like a little
kid
I'm still spamming after all this time
Picking up the pieces of my life with Wismen on my mind

Any such animal? I only need 2M, but any extra bands are ok. This is for an old MGB that takes a single DIN size radio, and believe me there that's the only place anything will fit. I really want an external audio input for my little portable GPS unit. There are a couple healthy speakers mounted in the doors that MUST be used in order to hear anything with the top down on the highway. (I assume all mobile rigs have an ext speaker jack.)

these words and the insistance of a poster in another thread that some how I my posting has rsien to some legal (did he realy mean ilgeal) level of being spam I point out Wismen has aleegedly tried to have me ToS , this is likely a lie OTOH Daveheil claims he has tried and alegedly doid Han (something or other the arrl director) and Robeson and land shark and prehaps others unknown to me as well have made efforts to me ToSed (without BTW acting aginst Wismen which shows you how bad off they are although I believe Dave has tried to ToS Wismen with little sucess) and yet I am still here posting quite openly from Hughes net under my call letter without the slightest disruption other claim that they have been "bomarded" by more than 5000 get help post ing the last month (I have not been counting so I will prisionaly accept the number) as a contrast I receive (and without any relationship to the NG more than 1000 spam emails a day trying to sell me Viagara or beast enalregements or golf clubs or god knows what is next,I supect many of us receive simliar levels of true spam

Yes Robeson has quit the feild and as such I really mention him Wismen remains and has posted (based on the fact I respond about 80 perecent of his posts) roughly 600 months in the same time span, and they contain some of the vilest materail it is has been my sorry duty to see, and that behavoir is ACCEPTABLE to those complaining

Id rather not need to post get help so much Id rather wismen got help, but even Dave Hiel no freind of mine to be sure reconizesthat Wismen has become sexualy obessed with me, if having the misforutne to become the target of someone sixk sexaul obession is reason for most poster to

I plan to be in Tokyo August 5th for one day only. I want to purchase (in an economic manner :]) a Yaesu or Icom mid-range HF rig, which I'll bring back to India with me. Does anyone have a recommendation for a store that will be open (essential, as I don't want to waste the airfare) and with good availability of stock?

Please respond to email below if possible, thanks.

thank you very much

I'm Still Spamming

(Elton John/Bernnie Taupin/Mark C. Morgan, kb9rqz)
[From the album "Markie's I.Q. is Too Low For Zero"]

You could never know what it's like
When you marry a jewish/polish transexual bulldyke
And if there's a cold lonely light that shines from you You'll wind up like the wreck I hide behind those sockpuppets I use in
newsgroups

And did you think this fool could never win
Well look at me, I'm spamming again and again
I got a taste of love in a simple way
And if you need to know why I'm still spamming Wismen just post away

Don't you know I'm still spamming better than I ever did Deluding myself that I look like a true survivor, whining like a little
kid
I'm still spamming after all this time
Picking up the pieces of my life with Wismen on my mind

I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah
I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah

Once I never could hope to win
You post down the road leaving me to spam again
The threats you made were meant to cut me down
And if the newsgroups were just a circus I'd be a clown by now

Don't you know I'm still spamming better than I ever did Deluding myself that I look like a true survivor, whining like a little
kid
I'm still spamming after all this time
Picking up the pieces of my life with Wismen on my mind

I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah
I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah

Why must all of your posts be of an abnormal sexual nature? And why are you

How do you figure I am responsible for messing up these groups???? I have killfiled most of the trolls and do my best to not respond when they are able to bypass my filters. I am one of the few that actually post about radio and related subjects. RRAP was a mess long before I started posting here, you guys have some real winners on this group saying some pretty sick shit. If I might answer your question, what did we lose: what you lose on the moderated web blogs is annonymity. Yes, you can have annonymity more or less, but somebody somewhere has to approve your posting and your password, and they have your email, it is a bit more of a digital paper chain than on usenet.

You also lose the ability to go off topic. Some fora are more strict in this regards than others, but there it is: sometimes relating one issue to something seemingly off-topic is lost, with it, the freedom to address big picture questions.

You lose the ability to cross post.

Etc... there are many others

I just wished we could all start talking about radio related material and stop fighting and posting all the homo nonsense that dominates a lot of the news groups. I originally came to Usenet for the exchange of ideas and to learn. But even when I ask OT questions, I rarely get an answer or the thread will end in a trolling war.

Hi all,
I once believed that UHF(and beyond) RF electronics was the most technically challenging hobby there is. Period.
However, I've since read about some chap who claims his principal 'hobby' is Quantum Mechanics! This fellow is in prison somewhere in the UK and all his 'work' is entirely theoretical (obviously - given the confined circumstances) and consists of the academic pursuit of the subject alone including heaps of serious number-crunching and formidably cryptic calculus.
The complex, metaphysical conundrum that arises from this is: can QM (highly theoretical even if you actually work hands-on with particle accelerators) ever be accurately described as a 'hobby?'
What does the Panel think?

3 have been published in The Petersfield Post, 1

www.adoptabeach web site (But was removed, presumably because Charmouth beach was scavenged clean), 1 was on display in the church porch at St.Enodoc's, trebetheric. A number have been published on Usenet.

Some are, indeed, about ladies - 2 of those in The Petersfield Post, for example. In response to one of them, the daughter (now in her 90's) of the lady I wrote about contacted me to say that her family were very pleased with the publicity.

i'm not sure what the losses from the connectors would be in a hardline system.

Quantum mechanics is a science - you don't prove anything. You make theories to explain data obtained by experiment, and verify the predictions of these theories with more experiments. Anyone looking for a subject whose results can be proven should stick to maths (another good choice for people stuck in prison!). But as a science, QM is solid (if somewhat difficult) - just because the guy in prison can't personally verify any predictions he comes up with, doesn't mean they can't be verified by others. After all, much of the theory is developed by people at universities, not just the more "practical" scientists working with particle accelerators and the like.

The ones that appeal to me are those where you'd think that a rhyme would be impossible, such as...

There was a young lady from Exeter,
So pretty, that men craned their necks at her.
Indeed, one was so brave
As to take out, and wave,
The distinguishing mark of his sex at her.

If you define a hobby as some pursuit you do in your spare time then I guess the answer has to be yes.

No, the red-neck test of manhood is to fish the oil drain plug out of the bucket of hot oil, bare-handed. It doesn't count unless the oil is elbow deep and from a hot engine. ;-)

It is a hobby if you're a physics Ph.D. who can't get an academic job :)

There are people who do astronomical computing (calculation of orbits, etc.)
as a hobby. I suppose this is similar.

You'll wind up like the wreck I hide behind those sockpuppets I use in

And did you think this fool could never win
Well look at me, I'm spamming again and again
I got a taste of love in a simple way
And if you need to know why I'm still spamming Wismen just post away

Don't you know I'm still spamming better than I ever did Deluding myself that I look like a true survivor, whining like a little
kid
I'm still spamming after all this time
Picking up the pieces of my life with Wismen on my mind

I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah
I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah

Once I never could hope to win
You post down the road leaving me to spam again
The threats you made were meant to cut me down

Yes, you are too fucking stupid to realize it. Shouldn't you be spending time with your dying daddy? Or did he tell you that he doesn't consider you his son? After all your whore mommy walked out on you two when she found you and your father having sex.

NAMES IN THE NEWS: K1MAN REFERENCES REMOVED FROM WIKIPEDIA

It appears as if all references to Glenn Baxter, K1MAN, have been removed from the on-line encyclopedia Wikipedia. According to a posting from the Wikipedia operators dated this past April 29th, the content previously posted in User Talk area of the concerning Baxter was not the sort of information that Wikipedia is intended for.

Now, trying to do a search on Wikipedia for the call sign K1MAN or any combination of Baxter's name or his name and call yields no results. The same holds true when you search for either his American Amateur Radio Association or International Amateur Radio Network.

Baxter, who has yet to pay a $21,000 fine issued by the FCC is also still not listed on the qrz.com call sign database and is still prevented from posting anything on the on-line pages on that site.

>It's a very big tent and there's room for all.

Actually, it's a very small tent and there is NOT room for all:

Let's crunch some numbers: Our total MF/HF spectrum consists of just 3.75 MHz, with only about half of it, 1875 kHz, useful for communications at any one particular time of the day.

With that in mind, let's look at some worst-case scenarios: If suddenly, as if by magic, all licensees were granted MF/HF privileges, we could possibly have 670,000 hams attempting to fill that 1.875 MHz. Okay, I'll grant you that folks have to work and sleep, so let's say at any one time, we have one-fourth of all 670 kilohams on the air, with two per QSO. That would mean each QSO would be separated by just 22 Hz.

I'll be more generous. Let's pretend that all 3.75 MHz is available all the time, with say, one-tenth of all operators on at any one time; now each two-person QSO is separated by 112 Hz. Getting better.

Worried that I didn't take into account frequency re-use? Alright, suppose we could manage three simultaneous QSOs spread across the country on a single frequency; each such grouping would now be separated by 336 Hz. That could be done if we ban phone.

I'll never understand this liberal mentality of wanting to grant everyone MF/HF privileges; it's no longer a privilege if it's something that everyone can get practically for free. We recevied our current spectrum total at a time (WARC 1979) when we had less than half the present number of hams. That shows that this movement of wanting to "fill up the bands or we'll lose them" is pure nonsense.

As Michael Savage says, "Liberalism is a mental disorder."

If you go to Google and look up some of the nyms that the dimwit uses, you'll find that, during the first 18 days of June, Google records these totals:

kb9rqz@hotmail.com - 333 posts
kb9rqz-mcm@hotmail.com - 97 posts kb9rqz_ars@yahoo.com - 64 posts kb9rqz-ars@hotmail.com - 238 posts konstans@hotmail.com - 296 posts
kb9rqz@amsat.org - 55 posts

That's a grand total of 1083 posts (or 60 posts per day), most of which simply say "get help" and therefore constitute a special kind of spam called a "spew." There are probably more posts, but I don't have a list of all of the dimwit's nyms.

Poor Shitball, spanked out of alt.flame for so long, everybody made fun of his cocksucker's lisp and the fact that he insists that Roger's ex is named Regina, when Roger ex-wife wan't named Regina. This is the second fuck up by Shitball aka Hewnderson, since he said Roger's ex was named Pam, previously.

Joanie Shitball shows off his "grammar" skills and hypocrisy with the

why can't you tell the truth cpo

there is plenty of room RIGHT now and given the tech lcass folks affected are roughly half the number of ARS lienses

thsince there is easily room for ttwice that many tranmissions there fore there is plety of room for all

* PLEASE NOTE: The report "could" contain "Pirate/SLIM" operations or more likely a "BUSTED CALLSIGN". As always, you never know - "Work First Worry Later" (WFWL).

5B, CYPRUS. Jim, WB2REM, will be active here as "*/*5B/WB2REM" starting July 7th until July 13th. Activity will be on 40-6 meters CW/SSB. QSL via his home callsign or by the bureau. Please include a SASE or SAE and sufficient return postage for your QSL card.

8Q, MALDIVES. Vangelis, SV2BFN, will be active as 8Q7/SV2BFN from June 21st to July 4th. This will be a holiday style operation, but he plans to be active on 40-10 meters SSB and RTTY, with some CW. QSL via his home callsign.

9A06, CROATIA (Special Event). Look for special event station 9A06P (Nine Alpha ZERO SIX Papa) to be active now through December 31st. Operations will be on all bands and modes. Activity is to celebrate the city of Djurdjevac. The full story will be on a special QSL card. All QSOs will be confirmed automatically via the bureau.

C9, MOZAMBIQUE (Update). A group of stateside operators will activate C91HQ as the main contest station and multiplier from Mozambique during the IARU (International Amateur Radio Union) DX Contest, July 8-9th. The C91HQ QSLs will be handled by K5LBU, Charles Frost of Missouri City, TX. The IARU Contest operation will be just one aspect of a five member team operation from June 27th until July 13th at Bilene, Mozambique. Operators include: Charles Frost/K5LBU (C91CF), Tom Anderson/WW5L (C91TL), Dr. Dave Gomberg/NE5EE (C91EE), Art Burke/N4PJ (C91JR) and Tom Kramer/NQ7R (C91TK). Each operator will handle their own QSLing, with Frost also handling QSLs for C91HQ. Daniel Hubbard, ZS6JR, is the on-scene coordinator. Webmaster is Steve Smothers, W9DX, of Cypress TX. "We will be on all bands and all modes before the contest," said Frost, who is heading up the operation. RTTY and PSK operations will also be on the air at various times. Frost, a former vice-president of the Texas DX Society, and Anderson, who is vice-president of the Lone Star DX Association, will be the main SSB operators, while Burke, Kramer, and Gomberg will be concentrating on CW. All will operate RTTY and PSK at different times. ICOM has donated two IC-7000 HF radios, while Tennadyne has donated two T8 log periodics. "We have already tested the rigs and the antennas and worked many California W6's from South Africa with excellent copy," Frost said. Other equipment includes: 4-40 meter sloper antennas, a 160/80/30m 72 foot vertical, an Icom 756 with IC-2KL amp, a Yaesu FT-1000MP with Tokyo High-Power 1 KW amp, and an Icom 746 Pro. See the DXpedition web page for additional information at: http://www.tdxs.net/C9.html
In addition to the DXpedition, several team members will be visiting the Escola Secundaria Maristas school in Bilene and presenting the school with a donation of badly needed school supplies. "A DXpedition is not always about DXing and ham radio," Anderson said, adding "the worldwide amateur radio fraternity has a duty to the local community both in times of disaster and when needs that we consider normal in developed nations, are critically needed in third world nations. We consider ourselves fortuneate to be able to help the school." Anderson is also an active Boy Scout leader and Eagle Scout advisor near Fort Worth Texas. His former ham DX calls include: 7P8TA, V31EF, and G0/WW5L, plus a guest operator at KH6BB--the Battleship Missouri permanently berthed in Honolulu, HI (KH6). He also was a staff member, volunteer examiner, merit badge counselor, and operator at K2BSA, the National Boy Scout Jamboree station in 1997. The idea to provide the school supplies was developed by Kramer, NQ7R, a school science teacher, who worked out the logistics with the American Consulate in Maputo, Mozambique and the U.S. Peace Corps. Besides basic school supplies, Kramer has arranged with team members and others to help supply the school with books in basic English, "which are in very short supply there. Each team member will be bringing books and whatever they can to help these children's education," Kramer said. Also each team member is an accomplished DXer with all having more than 200 countries and most are members of one or more DXCC honor rolls. Frost himself holds or has operated from 16 different DX countries including Kenya, Sudan, Cameroon, Peru, Jamaica, Saudi Arabia, plus several more. Currently on-line logs are not planned, but the team hopes to have high speed internet. Their QTH in Bilene will be the Sao Martinho resort, which has excellent propagation characteristics because of its location on the Indian Ocean. "The beach is located right outside the shack," said Frost. "Please check the DXpedition's Web site often for any updates as Steve will be in daily contact with us for new information," Frost said.

CN, MOROCCO. Rich, W7ZR, will be active as CN2ZR during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Single-Op/Single-Band (20m) entry. QSL via W7ZR. He states, "I answer 100% of SASE QSL cards. I support ARRL Logbook Of The World. I answer 0% of bureau or eqsl cards."

DU,PHILIPPINES (IOTA Ops). Operators Chris/VK3FY and Nik/VK3FNIK will be active as VK3FY/DU8 from several Philippine Islands between June 20th and July 5th. Their current plans are to activate the following islands: Bayangan Island (OC-235), Mindanao Island (OC-130), Cebu Island (OC-129), Negros (OC-129), Luzon (OC-042) and Mindanao's Coastal Islands (OC-235). No schedule was provided. Activity will be on all bands, CW and SSB. QSL via VK3FY.

DXCC NEWS (DXCC Rule Change). A press from Wayne Mills, N7NG, announces the following (dated June 14th): Upon request of the Programs and Services Committee (PSC), the DXAC has studied the impact of a change to the DXCC Rules. The DXAC, the Awards Committee and the PSC have concurred in this rule change, which will become effective June 15, 2006 at 0001Z. New text replaces the previously removed DXCC Rule, Section II, 1. Political Entities, Paragraph c). The new text shall read:

c) The Entity contains a permanent population, is administered by a local government, and is located at least 800 km from its parent. To satisfy the "permanent population" and "administered by a local government" criteria of this sub-section, an Entity must be listed on either (a) the U.S. Department of State's list of "Dependencies and Areas of Special Sovereignty" as having a local "Administrative Center," or (b) the United Nations list of "Non-Self-Governing Territories."

Rule 1c) is intended to recognize entities that are sufficiently separate from their parent for DXCC purposes but do not qualify under Rule 1a) or 1b). The new rule will cause a change to Point 1 status for certain entities. This in turn will reduce the mileage for a first separation for these entities from 800 km to 350 km.

The lists referenced in the text of the rule can be viewed at the following Web sites: the DOS list of Dependencies and Areas of Special Sovereignty at http://www.state.gov/s/inr/rls/10543.htm, and the U.N. list of Non-Self-Governing Territories at

http://www.un.org/depts/dpi/decolonization/trust3.htm
QSOs with any new entity resulting from this rule change will count for credit for the new entity only if the QSOs are made on or after the Start Date for the entity. In no case will QSOs made prior to the date of this notice be considered for credit for any new entity created under this rule. Applications for DXCC award credits resulting from this change will be accepted on or after October 1, 2006.

FIELD DAY NEWS (Next Weekend!).....
KC4AAA Amundsen-Scott Station South Pole Antarctica To Participate in 2006 Field Day: Wayne, N7NG, reports: "Robert Reynolds, N0QFQ, the Amundsen-Scott South Pole Station Antarctica on-site Satellite Communications Technician will be leading a major 2006 Field Day activity for KC4AAA. Operations will take place 1800z, 24th June through 2100z, 25th June. Experience shows that best opportunity for North and South American stations contacts appears around 2300z on the eastern seaboard and moves westward with time until the window seems to close around 0400z. There is much less certainty for other station contact times around the world. Primary operating frequency will be 14.243 MHz +/- a few hundred kHz depending on band occupancy. Other bands will be monitored for openings and may be exploited, however, 20m SSB operations will be the primary operating mode. South Pole will be operating as a "home" station with supplied power (Class 1D). Robert will have a team of up to 10 operators manning the station, most of whom he's teaching in a Ham radio licensing class on station. The team will be transmitting 1 kW and primarily be using a pair of Log-periodic antennas aimed toward the US. Given South Pole's location right under the auroral oval, radiowave propagation can make South Pole intercontinental HF radio communications a challenge, so listen carefully! Plans call for implementing a Logbook of The World (LoTW) for QSO verifications. QSL cards will come later in the year."
For more information, contact Nick Powell, NH6ON at: nick.powell@usap.gov

ISS WILL POSSIBLY BE ACTIVE DURING FIELD DAY. The W1AW Space Bulletin (ARLS004, dated June 16th) states that NASA ISS Ham Radio Project Engineer Kenneth Ransom, N5VHO, has released a list of International Space Station Field Day pass times for North and South America. See the following Web page for pass times and any updates at:
http://www.arrl.org/news/stories/2006/06/15/1/
The Amateur Radio on the International Space Station (ARISS) program has announced that the Phase 2 ham station aboard the ISS will be on the air in crossband repeater mode over Field Day weekend, Saturday and Sunday, June 24-25th. The chances of actually talking to one of the crew members appear to be minimal, however. "Keep in mind that these are not scheduled times for the crew to be active," Ransom points out. He says crew members Jeff Williams, KD5TVQ, and Pavel Vinogradov, RV3BS, may work some stations personally, but they're already booked pretty heavily during FD weekend. "They will try to participate as time permits, but the pass times for North America are not favorable," Ransom noted. The crew should be on its normal sleep schedule of 2130-0600 UTC during Field Day weekend. When they're awake, however, Williams and Vinogradov will have their hands full preparing for the arrival of the Progress 22 supply vehicle on Monday, June 26th, when the crew will deactivate the crossband repeater. The crossband repeater uplink is 437.800 MHz. The downlink is 145.800 MHz. Ransom says the crossband repeater should be active after 1900 UTC on Thursday, June 22 to give stations time to practice working through it and to learn how best to deal with Doppler shift on the uplink, which can be considerable. The crossband repeater will be available only to low-power (QRP) stations following AMSAT criteria, Ransom said. A QRP station may run no more than 10 W to a vertical or handheld antenna. U.S. pass times are not especially ideal for contacts with the crew members. The only one on Saturday, June 24 (UTC) - over Mexico and the Eastern US - falls during the crew's sleep period. Passes on Sunday, June 24 - from 0046 to 0105 UTC and from 0708 to 0728 UTC over the Central US - may offer a better opportunity. Stations in the U.S. Southwest might look for crew activity on Sunday from 0844 to 0900 UTC, while those in Hawaii should check Sunday from 1152 to 1200 UTC and again from 1327 to 1335 UTC. If Williams or Vinogradov do find time to get on the air, Ransom says, they also will use the crossband repeater mode. Williams will give a report of "NA1SS, 1 Alpha ISS," while Vinogradov will give a report of "RS0ISS, 1 Alpha ISS." Contacts through the ISS crossband repeater count as a satellite contact for Field Day bonus points, but contacts with the crew do not count for Field Day bonus points. AMSAT is making its ECHO (AO-51) satellite available for Field Day, Ransom notes. One of AO-51's FM transponders (145.880 MHz up/435.150 MHz down, no CTCSS tone needed) will be QRP only during the Field Day period. Bob Bruninga, WB4APR, has indicated that PCSat2--which is mounted on the outside of the ISS--will be in packet mode and operating on 145.825 MHz simplex during Field Day weekend.

FP, ST. PIERRE & MIQUELON. YL Peg, KB9LIE, will be active as FP/KB9LIE from Miquelon Island (NA-032, DIFO FP-002, WLOTA LH-1417), July 28th through August 6th. Activity will be 80-10 meters, depending on conditions. QSL via her home callsign, direct preferred (SASE, SAE + sufficient postage) or by the bureau.

MONTENEGRO NEWS (International Festival/DXpedition 2006). Ranko, YT6A, Team Leader, reports: "Following a national referendum on May 21, 2006, the Republic of Montenegro declared its independence on June 3, 2006. Montenegro's independence is now recognized by a growing number of countries. The very first amateur radio activity from this new DXCC entity will be managed by an International DXpedition Team, and is planned to take part very quickly after approval of the DXCC status." Crucial for DXCC credit is either acceptance of Montenegro by the UN into its membership or allocation of a callsign prefix block by the ITU. They expected this to take place during the summer of 2006. "Once Montenegro is accepted into the UN or obtains a callsign prefix block, DXers will have a new DXCC entity," says ARRL Membership Services Manager Wayne Mills, N7NG. The division of Serbia and Montenegro eliminates what remained of Yugoslavia. Serbia's parliament this week declared Serbia a sovereign nation as heir to the former Serbia-Montenegro union. Assuming that Serbia continues to hold its current seat in the UN, it will remain on the DXCC list as a pre-existing and continuing DXCC entity, Mills explained. Some of the activities that will be associated with The International DX Festival Montenegro 2006 will be a record breaking DXpedition targeting for 200,000 QSOs. The expedition will be held from three different locations using only one callsign (for the very first time) from the newly acquired ITU prefix allocation to Montenegro. Also mentioned, activity will be on all bands and modes, simultaneously during 2-3 weeks of continual activity from several setups located at the Adriatic Coast of Mediterranean Montenegro. Operators mentioned are: Bob Grimmick/N6OX, Hans Blondeel Timmerman/PB2T, Martti Laine/OH2BH (Radio Operations Leader, Coach), David Sumner/K1ZZ, Linda Sumner/KA1ZD, Wayne Mills/N7NG, Carsten Esch/DL6LAU, Vladan Kecman/YT3T and Ranko Boca/YT6A (DXpedition Leader). Organizers are: SKY Contest Club and Radio klub BOKA. Co-Organizers and Local Supportive Comittee: Amateur-Radio Union of Montenegro, Radio klub BAR - YU6GAA, Radio klub Tivat - YU6FPQ and Radio klub Bjelo Polje - YU6GBP. More information about this event can be found on:

QSL INFO AND NEWS.....
The Deutscher Amateur-Radio-Club (DARC) announced that the German's "Bundesnetzagentur" (FCC equivalent) has released an online German callbook. The URL address is:
http://ans.bundesnetzagentur.de/Amateurfunk/Rufzeichen.aspx

QSL Manager Silvano, I2YSB, (Manager of 5U7B, TX4PG, ZK3SB, 5W0SB, 6O0CW, 6O0N and 10 other callsigns from Niger), informs OPDX that due to the recent postage rate increase in Italy, 1 USD or 1 European IRC does not cover mail expenses to send a direct QSL outside Europe anymore. He requests that if you should want to receive a direct QSL outside Europe, please include 1 IRC + 1 USD or 2 USDs or 2 IRCs. Direct requests which do not include the mail coverage cost will be sent via the bureau.

II0ESA QSL STATUS. Marco, IK0DWN, informs OPDX that all paper logs for the 2005 special operations from the European Space Agency have now been imported electronically and all bureau QSLs have gone out. The electronic log is now available to users of the "Logbook Of The World" (LoTW) at:
http://www.arrl.org/lotw
Please address any queries to: ik0dwn@arrl.net

QSL Manager Phil Whitchurch, G3SWH, reports that he has recently acquired a copy of the log for the 2002 and 2004 operations of J6/G3XAQ. Phil states, "QSL cards are available either direct from my QRZ.com address, via E-mail for a reply via the bureau or via the bureau itself. If you choose either of the latter two routes, please remember that there may be a considerable delay in receiving your cards, as the bureau process is very slow and, due to the large volume of bureau cards that I handle, I only tend to send outgoing cards to the RSGB once per year. I hope to be able to upload the log to LoTW at some stage in the future."

NEW QSL MANAGER. Ron, AC7DX, informs that he will now handle QSL cards for T93X and T94TT.

UA4WHX QSL STATUS. World Traveler Vladimir, UA4WHX, now in Pretoria, R.S.A., informed OPDX this past weekend that he has been receiving questions about his QSL cards for his previous African operations. He tells OPDX that "ALL REQUESTS WILL BE ANSWERED AND ARE BEING CHECKED AGAINST THE LOGS NOW. ONCE THE TRIP IS OVER, WE WILL START SENDING THE

ANSWERS FOR ALL CALLSIGNS TOGETHER. I REALIZE IT IS NOT EASY TO WAIT THAT LONG BUT, THEN, IS THAT ANY EASIER BEING HERE FOR A COUPLE OF YEARS? DOING ALL THAT? WILL DO MY BEST TO GET THEM ALL ANSWERED AS SOON AS POSSIBLE."

QSL OH0AM via YV5AMH. Activity was during this past week by Reinaldo, YV5AMH, of Aves Island fame. He recently visited his old diplomatic outpost in Finland and decided to sail out to Aland Islands for the weekend. He was accompanied and assisted by Captain Jaakko/OH1TX and crew members Timo/OH1NX, Hannu/OH1XX and Martti/OH2BH .

SV9, CRETE (Update). Last week we mentioned that World traveler Bert, CX3AN, would be operating from Crete as SV9/CX3AN from July 6-10th, and would be joined by Theodooros, SV9/SV1EJD, and Fotis, SV9/SV1CIG, on the island. Theodoros, SV1EJD, contacted OPDX and informed us that he will be on Crete from July 6-20th and he plans to operate on SSB and possibly RTTY on 80-10 meters. Look for more info to appear on the following Web page at: http://www.sv1ejd.gr/crete.htm

V2, ANTIGUA. Nobby, G0VJG, will be active as V25V from June 23rd through July 6th. Activity will be on all HF bands, mainly SSB, but he will also try to work Europe on 6 meters and some digital modes. QSL via G4DFI, direct or by the bureau.

VK9C, COCOS-KEELING ISLANDS (Update). Charlie, W0YG, informs OPDX that he is indeed going back to VK9C in October. Barry/N0KV and Charlie/W0YG will be going to the island on October 30th, for a three week stay. He hopes they will have some quality time on the lower bands without QRM. He also mentioned that Bernd, VK2IA, is going out to VK9C on October 26th to set up for the CQWW SSB Contest (November 25-26th) as VK9AA (See OPDX.756). Charlie states, "He is going to return to the mainland on October 30th, on the same flight that we arrive. Bernd will leave his antennas set up for us, as well as his station will be all set to go." Barry and Charlie will operate right up until November 20th when they leave and Bernd again arrives, this time for the CQWW CW Contest. They will leave the antennas all set up for him so he can hit the ground running. Charlie states that their callsign has yet to be confirmed for this activity, but it will be forthcoming. All QSLs for Charlie's VK9C operations go direct, no bureau cards, to W0YG.

YV70/YW9, VENEZUELA. The Radio Club Venezolano (YV5AJ) informs OPDX that they will be active from the Apure State using the callsign YW9AJ, from June 29th through July 5th. Activity will include the "Venezuela's Independence Day Contest" (July 1-2nd), with operations on 160-6 meters on all modes. Also, look for satellite activity using the special callsign YV5SAT/9 (thanks to AMSAT-YV). The GRID will be FJ67hm. QSL via YV5AJ (QRZ.com address) or by the bureau. Satellite QSOs go via YV5SAT (QRZ.com address) or by the bureau. ADDED NOTE: The Radio Club Venezolano (RCV) also mentioned that they will use the special YV70IARU callsign during the upcoming IARU Contest as a HQ station signing RCV. The callsign celebrates the 70th anniversary of RCV's membership in the IARU. Operations will take place from various locations. QSL via YV5AJ (QRZ.com address) or by the bureau.

The boy just don't get it, does he? He needs to lose his ISP. Maybe THEN he'll start to figure things out just a little bit.

I'm going to send a letter by regular mail, just like someone on here suggested. Someone at Hughes just HAS to realize they have an abusive customer, and then they'll take action.

You have no fucking idea of what Hughes does or doesn't think. You are just spouting whatever pleases you.

> that you do show you to be a gay bashing bigot

There was no mention of gays in any of my posts. It seems that YOU are the one who plays that stupid game, and it isn't working.

> if you can explain to me in rational terms why pWismen posting that I > rape boy is acceptable and Get is help I'll stop

I never said that. Don't try to put words into my mouth, you pathetic little mental midget.

And as to the position you think that Hughes is taking, let me tell you a little story about Wiseman and an ISP he had named Stratuswave.

At first an admin from Stratuswave thought that he was defending Wiseman's so-called free speech rights when people complained, and the admin refused to listen to complaints about Wiseman.

After a while, enough email and regular mail kept arriving at the Wheeling offices that the admin was overridden by his own boss (I know because I mailed the boss at his home address). Wiseman was kicked off Stratuswave in spite of his posturing. It was very similar to your own situation.

So don't get too confident, prick face. Continuing letters to an ISP do make a difference. I hope that you become history "real soon now" at Hughes. You richly deserve it.

Oh Really I know you have been complaining to them for several months well given the basis of your complaints is that I reply "get help" to Wismens bazare acustions I did see the simlarity

but you may be able to convince someone that I get terminated from

Very well said.

The mantra that we must "attract new blood" has been shown, in Britland at least, as a piece of propaganda to help fill the coffers of our national CB society - the RSCB.

There has never been a shortage of _REAL_ Radio Hams.

Not quite. Testing on rules, regulations and technical knowledge is a bit different than testing on one specific mode of communication. I use CW, but considered the continued archaic CW testing requirement to be silly and outdated. It should have been dropped 30 years ago.

We give driving tests on the ability to drive the car and follow the regulations. We don't test on the proper operation of a buggy whip or care and feeding of horses. While people still enjoy riding horses and driving around in buggies, they do this of their own free will and no one is forcing it on them through a testing process to get a driver's license. The horse as a general means of transportation is over. We have evolved beyond that, but people still ride horses for fun and enjoyment and the government does have to force it on individuals just in case we ever have to go back to using horses for transportation in an extreme emergency.

5 WPM is easy. esp if you use Farnsworth.

i'm at 18 WPM, and i can copy contest exchanges at 30 WPM. i haven't made a CW QSO in 10 years!

i think the code requirement should be 13 WPM plus for the upper classes.

easy for you

not for me

I spent 5 years in my teens taking a test every couple of weeks towrds the end. I did get so I might pass either the sending or receiving on a given day but never both guess from that data I suspect isf I had the time and schedule I could mange to pass a receiving or better still a sending test in roughly a year bt I don't my schedule leaves very busy eroids and very slow eriods

but all this is beside the point nothing in the treaty give the USA the requirement to make such a test and nothing in the consitiotn reglates the matter so the power to use hf specturm is resvresed byt eh 10th amend to the states or the people themselves (para the constititon

unless the power to impose a code test can be shown to exist in other section such preahps shwoing that it is "nessacary and proper" an arguement that could have been made say when the miltary needed to warn us of freqs they were suing in cw or some other argument, the FCC and
th congress lack the legeal power to maintain the test if challanged, an expensive and unpleasent task

This was a new on-line ad placed in Philadelphia Inquirer and Philadelphia Daily News on www.philly.com (see full text below) about the secret aerosols rooms in US. You can find it by searching "secret", say, in the ad section of philly.com.

Democracy can not function effectively without the informed public. As a former NASA Langley scientist working in the area of nanotechnology and nanoscale particles, I have been recently exposed to the establishment of secret gas-aerosol rooms inside of United States, at least in the Mid-Atlantic region (from Philadelphia to Virginia). First, the highly irritant aerosols have surfaced at the NASA Langley Research Center in several safety accidents. Investigations were blocked, probably, because of lack of Congressional approval for such financially-lucrative research at NASA. Later, these aerosols had been encountered outside of NASA in Virginia, Delaware and Pennsylvania. This points out to yet another proliferation of originally-sensitive technologies into domestic American life to hurt and harass people without a proper oversight and much control. This amounts to torture, extra-judicial prosecution and authoritarian intimidation tactics.

The use of such irritants and the operations of the secret gas-aerosol rooms are gross violations of human and constitutional rights of American citizens and various domestic and international laws.

TORTURE IN USA: Secret Aerosols Rooms

US Scientist needs legal help dealing with the secret aerosols rooms (SARs) operated illegally in Philadelphia area, Newark (DE), Hampton and Williamsburg (VA). Highly volatile aerosols with and without bacterial content cause dry cough, airways and eyes irritation, chest pain and inflammation. FBI and Homeland Security associates are likely operators of SARs, while collaborators may be hotel staff and landlords, who get financial/material or other incentives. US citizens and kids are victims.

4597. What is the purpose of beginners' licences?

What is the purpose of beginners' licences?

Ham Radio is a technical pursuit and is distinct from "CB Radio" which latter is the name for the hobby for those who buy their rigs off-the-shelf and send them back to the shop if ever needing repair.

Radio Hams are qualified to build and operate their own equipment, and a (admittedly rudimentary) qualification is needed. However, that qualification is easily passed by otherwise-unqualified self-taught 14-year-olds who have the right motivation. Indeed, anybody with the right motivation would not find it to be a hurdle, and so if anybody did so find it, then their suitability to be a Radio Ham would be called into question.

As such 14-year-olds have shown themselves for years able to pass the exam at that level, what need has their ever been to reduce the standard below that of the mental age of a 14-year-old?

What need therefore, to introduce examinations that not only can 6-year-olds pass after two days tuition, but that intellectually-challenged abusive social misfits of adult years are incapable of passing? Such adults couldn't even pass the test of a 14-year-old, so it was completely pointless to make them look even stupider by them being unable to pass a test aimed at 6-year-olds!

Yankland had a Novice Licence for some years, and it has now been discontinued. There is no reason to have any other similar beginners' licences anywhere in the world.

In Britland, the M3/CB Fools' Licence scheme has proved to be a gangrenous degeneration because, where there has been the natural lifeblood of technical people, that blood has been cut off, and those people put off, by the insulting requirement for them to sit an examination at the kindergarten level.

It is time for self-respecting _REAL_ Radio Hams all over the world to petition their respective governments to have these simpletons' licences

abolished. After all, what grown man would want to known as someone who has struggled to pass an exam aimed at 6-year-olds? None at all! What grown man would want a photograph published of him grinning with pleasure that he's passe an exam aimed at 6-year-olds? None at all!

If 14-year-olds can do it, then anybody sufficiently well motivated to be a Radio Ham can do it.

If nothing else, the gratuitously insulting and grossly offensive posts to these NG by those who hold the licences and by those who promote them (Including, most disgracefully, the master instructor for the scheme in Britland) suggest that such people are not now and cannot ever be considered to be part of the gentlemanly traditions of Radio Hammery.

5 WPM is do-able! My 4 1/2 year granddaughter copies 5 wpm! Her 10 year old brother, who learned it in Cub Scouts, taught her. And, she can't even spell yet! But, she knows the alphabet from watching TV.

Some people have DIFFICULTY learning Morse Code, real difficulty!

I have taught Morse Code off and on for 40 years and from total ignorance to 100% success in 8 hours, 2 hours a week for 4 weeks [plus a little home practice. It is practice [work] that makes it successful.]

Some people can learn the code but suffer from "TEST STRESS". They can copy it comfortably in their home or their surroundings; but, when they have to demonstrate that skill in front of a 'WITNESS' who has pass/fail power, they tense up and fail. That's understandable and can be worked with.

Some people are dyslexic. But, they can hear it and talk it out, but can't get it on paper. But, they learned the code.

If you can learn the english alphabet, if you can learn the english language, if you can read this email then you CAN LEARN Morse Code at 5 WPM. You may never progress to 20 wpm [It took me 24 months at 1 hour of practice a day every day to progress from 5 to 20 wpm] but 5 wpm can be learned.

Teaching methods, practice criteria and testing/verification methods become critical for those with difficulty.

I'll top post again for brevity and getting to the point.

I like CW! It is most likely going away as a requirement. I'm sad at this.

Amateur radio will change as a result. Everything changes. Hopefully the changes will be positive.

I passed it at 14 but I would have done it at 12 if licences had been available to 12 year olds.
The 14 year limit was nonsensical as all other restricted activities are 16 or 18 AFAIK.

A Marconi distress transmitter, the same as Titanic's.
A Marconi 1900 coherer and jigger.
The oldest equipped radio station in the world.
An Edison 1882 diode - the first of all radio tubes.
An 1881 Professor Dolbear radio receiver. It still works.

No, it's a statement of historic fact, as determined by the licensing authorities. But it's incorrct -- anyone who can't copy 5 wpm deserves a license, but it's Citizen's Band.

A further valid statement would be that anyone with an IQ approaching 100 can learn to copy 5 wpm. That's less than one character every two seconds, which gives tons of time to recognize and write the single character before the next one begins. Dyslexia cannot apply, unless it is dyslexia that affects the remembered dot/dash pattern of a single character.

jesus, let's just do away with the written test and the CW test. let's just open the doors to anyone. we'll set up a webpage at the ARRL site, and you'll just point and click. it will be as easy as becoming a Reverend.

you could license your dog, a terrorist, anyone.

honestly, i am very glad there are minimum requirements. this keeps out people who are not serious about the hobby. people who don't know what they are doing should not be transmitting (esp on HF).

this whole CW debate is what we call the dumbing down of America.

i mean we have minimum standards for driving in America or becoming a citizen, why is ham radio so different?

NO! Don't label another person! It is wrong to label! Particularly when you do not know any of his/her life's circumstances.

I said some people have difficulty learning or learning one particular subject.

It is reported that Albert Einstein had difficulty learning Calculus. The man was a Physics genius but needed help with advanced math.

I hold a degree in engineering and have completed four years of seminary, but I have not been able to learn conversational SPANISH. [About two years after ordination the Cardinal requested that I learn Spanish at the seminary . After two months the instructor approved my withdrawal from the class. I could learn vocabulary, how to read, write and the grammar for spanish, but my ear does not hear spanish. Total immersion in a Spanish speaking community would be the way for me to learn.]

I still say, anyone who can learn an/the alphabet can learn Morse Code. For those with difficulty, the solution to the issue is teaching METHODs not the student's difficulty. Any alphabet is recognizing sound patterns. Words are simply combinations of sound patterns.

For 'an_old_friend' I would begin by teaching an alphabet of SOUND PATTERNS. No requirement for speed. Just focus on sound patterns. Keep it very simple. Each two hour lesson would focus on no more than 7 letters until well heard. Then move to SOUND PATTERNS that are close to or similar to those [s]he has learned and is mastering. [Example: learn the sound patterns for 'A', 'W', and 'J' repeat until they are instantly recognized. Then move on to 'N' 'D', 'B', etc. Don't count 'dots' or 'dashes' but hear sound patterns.]

The next two hour session, one week later, would begin with a review then add 'T, M, O' followed by 'E, I, S, H'. Drill sound patterns. Then end the session by sending simple words using the 1/2 of the alphabet that has been studied. Speed is NOT a requirement! Accuracy is! If Farnsworth timing at 18 wpm is a roadblock, then change practice timing to 13 wpm or 10 wpm or 7 1/2 wpm or 5 wpm or 3 wpm. SPEED is NOT a REQUIREMENT! Accuracy is!

The next two weeks complete the alphabet. Week five would include the numbers and common punctuation. [5 sound character patterns and 6 sound character patterns].

Having said all this, my defense of CW is not any legal requirement. It is simply the best way to work rare DX. Much less power required. Much less bandwidth required. Much more discernible [copyable] in a pile. And, it is fun!

it was differential geometry that Einstein was unfamiliar with. when formulating relativity, he realized that he needed tools that he was not familiar with. so he went to a mathematician friend and learned which tools he needed.

please understand this in the context of 1912. differential geometry was fairly new back then, i believe it came from Riemann.

it's possible for some branches of math and physics to be relatively arcane. for instance, de Borges attempted proofs use operator theory. most mathematics students cannot read his papers. in fact, most professional mathematicians can't read them either. the only reason that de Borges proof of Bieberbach became accepted is that it was rewritten by other Europeans.

it's not uncommon for a theoretical physicist to have to learn a new branch of math to solve a problem. for instance, string theorists working on the landscape turned to statistics.

prehaps you are trying to be helpfull

you are coming off insulting and condesnding that metodalogy was tried and my ears lose the older set of patterns in a few day before I get a hold of the next set fun for you the migraine headaches I get listening to any of it is not fun none enjoys pain on that level

yes I might be ableto learn well enough now with only a receive or tranmited test (and if I were going to try it would be to send) so I don't have to listen to it

you have fun with fine go for it Bear in mind I think Mose and esp the attiudes around are bad for the ARS but I support your freedom to disagree and even to just do something I consider nonproducitve just for sheer joy of it

I expect the same however for myself

relativity utilizes tensor calculus, which is a few semesters beyond the basic integral calculus taught to many college students. even today, relativity is viewed as fairly knotty. general relativity really isn't tackled until graduate school.

it's my understanding that Einstein was very good at math. to be a lowly patent clerk and revolutionize physics requires real skill.

what is advanced math? multivariable calculus and ordinary differential equations are viewed as advanced by the general population, however millions of people have learned the basics of these. in contrast, there are papers in number theory that can only be a read by a dozen people on the planet.

it's partially due to our own limitations as humans.

No it isn't.

Some things in life require you do a little work to enjoy their benefits.
You don't want to learn CW, you shouldn't be allowed on ham radio.

And Five words per minute ain't a code test. I can fart five words per minute. Anyone that can't learn 5 wpm is either lazy or a tard and should stick to CB, FRS, and cell phones.

We gave those Techs the no code license because some said they weren't interested in HF and wanted the freedom experiment with new modes, but that's not what happened. All we got was a bunch of appliance operators plugging up repeaters. Maybe only two or three percent are doing digital, new modes, satellites, scatter, aurora, DX, etc. everyone else is gabbing on a microphone like CB'ers waiting for the FCC's R & O to come out.

Well, Larry, it took you to the last sentence, but you did actually lurch into the problem.
Within seconds after learning what dah-dit-dit-dah means (or dit-dah-dah-dit, for that matter), I fail to accurately recognize them when they are sent again. Hundreds of tries -- all failures, all mine.

From your lofty perch, as a successful Morse Code user, you look down on me.
You could stand to learn a little humility. It would serve you and the amateur community better than dah-dit-dah any day.

should we get rid of the written test because people can't learn decibels and basic algebra?

perhaps the CW test could have a question pool similar to the written. you could memorize all the answers. i am actually dead serious. or standardize the test so that the output is always like a QSO in super morse. there are ways to make the test easier.

hmm, or we could have an option that you can view the CW in a spectrogram and decode it visually.

It matters not. When management lacks the same talent, engineers will be chosen for economic rather than practical reasons. Outsourcing to India and H1B visas are proof. The fact that India has yet to produce a single Intel or Microsoft or H-P or Sony is lost on those whose who fawn over those rote trained hordes.

Bill you are 100% wrong!

I am a right wing Republican, socially conservative, I attempt to be morally correct [that makes me politically incorrect quite often], and Conservative Christian [Clergyman]. I favor a very strong military [prior to my retirement from engineering, I served for 6 years as Program Chief Engineer on the USAF MX Missile (WS-118) RS/RV].

I believe the USA Constitution must be read and understood in the social context in which it was written. Changes should be by amendment not judicial agenda.

Hi there.

Just a quick thought. I will not jump into the code vs. no-code fray. That said, I'd like to pass on an experience I had with a college professor friend of mine many years ago, now passed (Doc Bronfield WA2SMW). I learned CW at the age of 9 using flashing light. Now age 57. Got my novice at age 14 and general at age 15. The extra came easy as did 30 wpm plus CW. Not so with my friend Doc. He tried and tried, and then we realized that he had aural dyslexia. So I had an idea. With the help of local engineering types. They built a keyer that could sent different frequencies slightly for the dits and dahs. That was what he needed to get his code speed up and pass the general using the keyer during a FCC test. Here's what I believe should happen with CW. When I passed my extra there were no extra class operating privileges issued, but the FCC issued a nice Extra class certificate for the accomplishment (which I still have). I suggest we leave the 5 wpm code requirement in place as it now is, but go back to issuing the 20 wpm certificate by VE's. That would, perhaps, satisfy, the pro-code folk? It would reward the accomplishment without necessarily making it an Extra class requirement.

no bout honest does one need to have the Formulas for adding resistor (and cap and inductors i) series and paralell memorized.. ithink more question on operating practices rules and rules would better serve us than data we unlikely to need to use suddenly in the feild

I have offered such as an possible acomodation since I have in fact done a few QSO's almost exactly that way (used a computer to decode

what it could and used my eye to fill in the blanks, that has me my 3 CW EME QSO) if alll I needed to do was decode a spectrgraph of Morse and had TIME to work on on without have to hold any of the QSO in my head I (believe) could do that (with some prep work of course)

I might also be just able to use the most extreme accomodation avalible letter by letter (which elimates what beomce quickly a major probem for me was the an I or 2 e's btw)but the VE teams around the last place I ived were unwilling with out and MD signing off and I only ever saw a phd and more likely MSSW about it , that these contacts in the distant past (since I have learned ways of coping on my own) Indeed Robeson made one of his early flaiming attack period on that very subject when in his stlaking of me he learned of my posting to various support forums for Dyslexics and othe rrelated condictions for asking "wht would a MD that does not deal with LDs need in in order to medical cerify the existance of the condiction, and Robeson a once very comon poster hasrenewed that flame attack several times since

I have never inquired of the team roud here since by the time I became settled enough to look into that the NPRM came out and since even those levels would take a extensive prep, it did not seem worth while since it seem clear we will son have at least No Code general if not Extra

Yeah but in newsgroups argumentum ad hominem is practically the order of the day.
I only offered my education to refute the "lazy or a tard [sic]" cheap shot.

Dr. Nagel,

You please listen to me, I get PhD from big university. My university so expensive most American can't buy cafeteria lunch.

Long time ago, many years, I make secret lair in Bikini Atoll. American call it that, but I rename to Soong's Micronesian Micronation. It has nice ring to it.

Anyway, I build androids and mind my own business, but one day I monitor Americans and they say they blow up my island. Some missile test, but I say waste of perfectly good rocks.

I detect submarine with my acoustics, and I transmit on ELF and say "Don't blow up my island please!" But my Engrish so bad, they get confused and jam me with much megawatts. I not give up though. I build big ideograph out of bamboo, it say "Don't blow up my island thanks". But they have no analyst that read my language. I escape in nick of time in my junk ship.

look at picture, see big hole in middle of island?

MX missile destroy me. Now I teach dumb punk how to repair personal computer. I get revenge. I build big contest station and beat everyone.

NOPE! The MX missile has 100% nothing to do with the Bikini Tests! Those tests were conducted after WWII and ended in the 1950s. The MX missile initial deployment was 1985.

By today's standards, the Bikini tests were low yield [~20KT] fission devices. Today's standard is moderate yields [~300 to 500 KT] fission-fusion devices.

MX has nothing to do with Bikini Atoll.

Have fun building your androids.

4818. Morons on 20 Meters

Last weekend I was zooming around the 20 meter bands when I heard these morons on 14.275 Mhz talking about Glenn Baxter, and one of them was Disco Dan W4NTI. Now I can understand that these "cry-babies" are pissed off at Baxter and VE7KFM, but you would think these morons would have better things to talk about them those two. I mean there are a million other things they should talk about instead of those two, I mean I can come up with millions of topics that don't relate to Baxter or VE7KFM. But no, these inbred are obsessed with those two that their on air behavior is almost embarrassing. They are in fact a primary example of radio operators who take their hobby to seriously and either need to back off of it for a while or be removed from the service, because like Baxter and VE7KFM, their behavior is not wanted on the amateur bands. No amateur should bad mouth another amateur on the air, especially on a HF band.

No, I see a newsgroup clown that can't accept the fact that this man learned to succeed despite his dyslexia. Instead of offering ideas that could help him learn code you decide to insult him. You sit and whine about how ham radio is going to shit because they allow no code tech licensing and possibly doing away with code altogether. But you missed the biggest point with ham radio it was to help people. Did you help this man by offering alternative options to learn code? No, you insult him instead. It is you and your kind that will be the downfall of ham radio. Blame yourself.

Why do you find the need to boost your (lack of) self-confidence by insulting this person by comparing him to Mark? Mark chooses to sit on his ass sucking the entitlement system dry and contributing nothing to society, while this person decided to make the best of his what God gave him and he contributes to the same entitlement system that Mark chooses to deplete.

Earl you are not the Pearl of wisdom, you are the faux Pearl that trolls to enhance your (lack of) self-esteem.

Something I just thought of at the spur of the moment (not to mention keeps me on topic), some disabled person should sue to remove ALL code requirements, or offer an exclusion to those with disabilities to not have to take ANY code test under the Americans with Disability Act. I'm sure that person could even get a free ACLU lawyer to handle it.

India is not a country we rely on to build super companies (for lack of a better term). Take a look at what we send to India. Toxic chemical factories that would be choked to death by special interest groups and politicians. We also outsource technical support, which is a waste of time and money, good thing companies don't pay them much, but it's a cheap way of saying "we have tech support" without truly having it. Look at the shoe mfg. industry, all moved to third world slave labor countries. Good for the shoe industry as they no longer have to deal with unions and we keep management and development in countries that have the talent and resources to maintain state of the art products. Look at how the auto industry has changed. They sent 1000s of jobs overseas to cut down on union labor (with management and R&D in the US), and the Japs are opening plants in the US (with management and R&D in Japan) that will never deal with the UAW. I could go on forever with this post (and talk about NAFTA), but will end my rave at this point. BTW, changed subject header as it didn't seem to fit. I would have trimmed a few NGs but am unsure what groups you are subscribed to.

Many years ago, 1950s, there was a very active 10 meter ham in Danvers, Massachusetts, during the period of Class A, B and C licenses. He was an arthritic quadriplegic. He was wheel chair bound, lived alone, and required visiting help to get into and out of bed and have his meals prepared and served.

He had a Class C [Conditional] license. He learned to copy 'read' CW in his head although he did not have the ability to send. I don't think he would consider a lawsuit appropriate.

Some of the OTs on this list may have worked him. W1JFS, Les MacCrakin. God Rest His Soul.

Having hired many engineers in my lifetime I can state that good engineers meet several criteria:

o meet the technical requirements established by your customer,

o meet the schedule established by your customer,

o meet the costs established by your customer.

Economics is only 1/3 of good engineering talent.

Well I described a number of alternatives to learning and he persists in saying he cannot learn code. Now I have not insulted him that I know of (although it's difficult to predict what one might take as an insult). However, if someone truly is incapable of learning code, then they are unable to learn to understand the spoken word and to speak. The fact that he can speak and understand the spoken word means he can learn code at the basic level of 5wpm. He is his own biggest enemy.

A completely deaf person can speak and read lips but he/she still cannot even hear Morse code. What you need to understand is that something that seems normal to you is missing in some people. If an amateur radio license required dunking a basketball, could you do it? As one who can dunk a basketball, I can tell you all you need is enough will and effort and you can do it.

May word begin to look for the accololypse I agree with every word in a post from Dr Death

aloouth the use of this story doess illustrate what is called in some circle "cripple casts" where the more visible handicaps claim if they greater entitlement to accomodation

and as I have said it has been disucussed aclu is not interested and a few people I know are looking for an antonry to take it on, however few are willing as long as the FCC contiues to dangle the likehood they would act in less than the 5 or years prusuing that would take

With deaf people use can use a light or a subwoofer for them to copy code. I don't want to stereotype deaf people, but I have found many of them to be hooked on entitlements and expect unreasonable accommodations. I have a relative that refuses to wear a hearing aid, and then gets angry when there are communication problems. This person is physically able to work; yet sits around on my tax dollars playing the feel sorry for me card.

Deaf persons have succussfully completed the code portion of the testing at all levels of speed. Some use a vibrator attached to their wrist.
Others us a light. As mentioned elsewhere "never say never".

I do not have a personal problem with deaf people. If you would leave my post intact maybe you and others would comprehend that. You just want to turn what was an on topic post into a flame war. You are not worth the time and effort. <plonk>

But that certainly doesn't satisfy the letter of the regulations.
To do that, they must "copy by ear".

If I don my knee braces, I still can. Can you?

The point is that some things are possible for each individual and other things are impossible. Anybody who can't dunk a basketball or pass a MENSA exam should know how a person feels when they can't learn Morse code.
I personally think it would improve the ARS to only allow MENSA engineers to be a member. How does that make you feel?

One of the brightest engineers I know, who has a commercial FCC license and was the engineer at an AM broadcast station, couldn't get past 5wpm so he was condemned to Tech class for 30 years. He knows more about radio than any ten other hams.

Cecil as good as it is your analogy still fails thanks to the fact that if I can drunk (and I have no idea wether I can or not) it only means something In Basketball. now if one inabilty to duck a basketball barred them from all sports then you rise closer to the level of what

What you don't seem to realize is that dunking a basketball

Not a correct analogy. For starters, completely deaf people have learned the Morse code. Flashing lights and pulse pads have served their needs. Just as they have learned to speak and read lips, they can learn alternative methods of using code.

The 5wpm level is more equivalent to dunking a basketball in a basket that is just above head height rather than regulation professional height. Under those conditions, anyone can dunk a basketball.

The biggest reasons people "cannot" learn code are very simple.

1. They don't really want to and so subconsciously resist.
2. They have been subjected to poor training methods.
3. No one's ever taught them correct practice methods.
4. They have developed unrealistic expectations of the level of effort required.
5. Due to bad experiences resulting from the above items, they've convinced themselves they can't learn and so create a self-fulfilling prophecy.

Every problem that Sal has described has afflicted almost every student of Morse code (except perhaps for the very rare code geniuses). Forgetting letters right after learning them? Been there, done that. Confusing letters? Been there, done that. I've had to bow out of QSOs because my brain freezes up and refuses to keep copying.

It took me 3 months of daily practice of an hour or more every day to get to 5wpm. That's over 90 hours. The average person only needs about 30 hours. I experienced every problem that "Sal" has mentioned. I eventually went on to master the 20wpm. That took 9 months of the same intensive daily practice, over 270 hours. Fortunately I wasn't hobbled by the expectation of learning it in a few weeks. Luckily no one had ever told me I could learn it in a few days or weeks. So I just kept at it for however long it took.

True enough but that accommodation has been accepted for a very long time.
The regulations also said that they must be by hand. A sending test hasn't been used in decades except as an accommodation for people with hearing problems, etc. The FCC itself had stopped administering a sending test before they turned the testing over to the amateur community.

But the letter of the law says they must receive Morse code by ear. Anything else is a violation of that law. It's try 5 years at 40minute per day, I frankly prefer not to do the math to come up with the nuber of hours

and still NO sucess

now of course if you respond to me at all you blame my metohod or my unkonwn to you teachers etc.

everything to avoid the central issue why is Code knowledge more important than the rest of Ham radio combined that is the issue of course I say more important since their question in pools about cw that tip it from equal to the rest to more important

Well the accommodation has been used and accepted for a very long time. The regs also say send by hand but no one has administered a sending test in decades except as an accommodation to individuals with difficulty in receiving.

Your life guard analogy doesn't hold up either. Instead it would be like allowing the life guard to use a row boat instead of swimming out to the victim.

You have just admitted that the Morse code test has been irreversibly compromised already. A deaf person holding an HF ham license cannot hear an SOS so the entire purpose of forcing him to learn Morse code is bogus. He is going to be using a digital mode, not sitting there with his hand on the speaker waiting to feel an SOS from a sinking ship that doesn't even have CW capability anymore.

Believe me, this guy shed tears when he couldn't get past 10 wpm. He has a physical mental tick every few seconds, akin to epilepsy, that causes him to lose time. He cannot speak one minute of continuous speech much less receive one minute of continuous Morse code. When he speaks, some of the time is silence while his brain is out to lunch. But when he does speak it is worth ten times the average person's utterances. He is an engineering genius.

That's what they are replacing the CW test with, the slam dunk. Now all those hams with their Hover Rounds will have to give up their tickets.

Why not get rid of the code? Really, why not make the written exam easier? Just make exams covers enough to make sure some idiot doesn't kill themselves or some body else.

Have only one class of license called "Amateur Radio License", with full access to all bands. No matter what class a person holds now it would be renewed as only "Amateur Radio License". Novices would be grandfathered in.You couldn't get any worse class of ham than we do with the 20wpm wonders.

You have obviously not been on 20 Meters in some time.
14.275 is THE NEW toilet bowl of ham radio.

Some say it may even come close to soon taking the place of the INFAMOUS 14.313 mHz of years ago.

Just park your dial there and you'll hear a whole cast of rejects, both old and new, some of em from the old 14.313 freq history also and parts of 75 Meters.

CB'ers take note also - these are all USB freqs.

As the guy in Florida (I think his name was "Bagel Bernie") used to say: "ENJOY - Ya've earned it!"

Note: I have not yet heard the infamous "Bathroom Man" of Year's past on there (He was in Az by the way) but hopefully he will be joining the fray soon too!

I don't think you insulted me -- it was whoever said I don't deserve a license.

However, I do think it's a bit of a stretch to say that I can learn code just because I can speak and understand words. You should see what my raw typing looks like before I go back and fix it prior to hitting send (or should I say "sned," which was what I typed the first time -- typically four or five of those per line.) It's pretty bad.

I'm thinking of trying to learn the dits and dahs as strings of written dots and dashes on paper. According to everything I've been told or exposed to, that is not recommended. All the training says the goal is to perceive each letter as a consolidated unit of sounds without any intermediate translation steps. Well, since I'm positive that isn't working, particularly for characters of four or more elements ... maybe a graphical alternative is in order.

The ARRL VEC will not premite that in code even as an accomdation

but it isn't allowed by the largest organiztion involed in code testing, the erefusual of the Code testing side to enage in any meanfull compromises is what finaly convinced to to aid and fight the

You have extracted something from my post that was never there. No one has ever said that the purpose of hams knowing code was to hear a ship sending an SOS.

In addition, he might have a light rigged for cw, which he could see as he moved about the room.

Digital modes fail on a regular basis due to static, auroras, etc. It's a good idea to have a non-voice, non-computer alternative.

Since the late 80's, he could have gotten a medical waiver for the speeds higher than 5wpm. His case proves my point though. i.e. He did learn the spoken language despite his problem. He did learn the 5wpm despite his problem. His problem manifests itself in dealing fluently with the spoken language and also manifests itself in dealing with higher code speeds.

A problem that would affect the ability to learn code affects the ability to deal with the aural/spoken language.

1. Incorrect training methods. These abound. There are more bad ones than good ones around.
2. Incorrect practice methods. Many teachers and students don't really know how it should be practiced. They just muddle along. Among other things, that means daily practice not just getting together with a teacher once a week. It also means breaking the daily practice session into 15 minute increments so the brain doesn't fatigue.
3. Unrealistic expectations is quite possibly the biggest one. People think they should be able to learn it in a few days or a couple of weeks. It takes the average person 30 hours to get to 5wpm. At an hour per day, that's one month. A more comfortable pace is 1/2 hour per day for two months. (It took me closer to 90 hours.)
4. Disapppointment created by the above issues causing a person to believe they can't do it thus creating a self-fulfilling prophecy.
5. Not wanting to do it so they end up fighting themselves subconsciously.
6. Negative reinforcement by those who tell them that code testing should be eliminated because it is "useless". Anyone who's seen HF trashed by static or aurora should know better.

It was part of a rebuttal to someone who said that requiring 5wpm code was Typing and reading are visually based. So it makes sense that those are a problem. But do you have difficulty saying words or hearing them? Just because the typing is a problem, doesn't mean that the aural/spoken is a problem. Reading/writing is a different activity than hearing/speaking and uses different parts of the brain. While I can't imagine a graphical method working for a dyslexic since it's visual, who can say for sure.

By the way, I still have problems with longer characters now and then or combinations of certain characters. I had an awful time trying to copy a call sign in a contest that began with SH5 (3 dots, 4 dots, 5 dots).

Recently I can across a "music" track that is about 5 minutes long that teaches Morse by the sound of the characters.

If you would find this helpful I may be able to get a copy of it and place it on an ftp server for you.

Outsourcing started way back in the 70's. It has only been in the last decade that anyone in the media and public paid any attention to it.
When layoffs became common place after the dotcom bust then the public finally realized that the barn door was open and nearly half the cows are gone. A bit to late.

4900. FIGHT THE SPEW! xnews / slrn score file update

The xnews score file which was posted previously has been updated to block some additional IP addresses belonging to known garbage posters. Google has not been blocked (yet), because the score file is now killing 99% of the spew in the rec.radio.amateur hierarchy.

Xnews is a free news reader which does not have to be installed. Simply extract it from the zip file and start running xnews.exe. You can obtain xnews from

http://www.download.com/3000-2164-10144167.html

and you can copy the score file below into score.ini to have an immediately effective filtering system.

An xnews / slrn score file allows you to specify filtering rules for each news group or for a collection of groups. You do that by enclosing the name of the group(s) in square brackets.

After the bracketed name of the groups, you specify a score. I don't bother with elaborate scoring, and instead give all matches a score of -9999. That causes the matching posts to be killed.

So, for all of the rec.radio.amateur hierarchy, plus the flame_fest news group, you can use the following score file (lines starting with "%" are comments). Text case is ignored by default, so "get help" matches "GeT HElp" when specified below. If you don't want to use a rule, simply insert a "%" character as the first character of a rule, or else delete the rule completely.

I'm Still Spamming

(Elton John/Bernnie Taupin/Mark C. Morgan, kb9rqz)
[From the album "Markie's I.Q. is Too Low For Zero"]

You could never know what it's like
When you marry a jewish/polish transexual bulldyke
And if there's a cold lonely light that shines from you You'll wind up like the wreck I hide behind those sockpuppets I use in
newsgroups

And did you think this fool could never win
Well look at me, I'm spamming again and again
I got a taste of love in a simple way
And if you need to know why I'm still spamming Wismen just post away

Don't you know I'm still spamming better than I ever did Deluding myself that I look like a true survivor, whining like a little

kid
I'm still spamming after all this time
Picking up the pieces of my life with Wismen on my mind

I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah
I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah

Once I never could hope to win
You post down the road leaving me to spam again
The threats you made were meant to cut me down
And if the newsgroups were just a circus I'd be a clown by now

Don't you know I'm still spamming better than I ever did Deluding myself that I look like a true survivor, whining like a little

kid
I'm still spamming after all this time
Picking up the pieces of my life with Wismen on my mind

I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah
I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah

"hungry" and "homeless" people are there by their own choice or by choices they have made in their past. The welfare system doesn't work, otherwise there wouldn't be 5 1/2 MILLION people dependant on it.

Yes..... I have a problem with the system when 28% of my net profits get paid to the feds to support lazy dead beats, and another 4% goes to the state for the same.

I am retired Military, I served my country for 22 years, My father was born in this country by the grace of god, and couldn't speek the language until he was in grade school. When I retired from the miltary, I started my company and have worked my ass off for 10 years to get to where I am now, finally starting to make a comfortable living.

There are too many jobs out there for folks to be unemployed, homeless, or hungry. Those that are unemployable are those who by their own choice, can't seem to show up to work, let alone on time...those who can't seem to show up for work sober and not hung over, and those who can't seem to be able to pass a drug screening. If I could find somebody that COULD meet those minimum standards and had a little common sense and a desire to learn, I would hire them in a heartbeat, and they will earn good money.

They have made their choices.... I for one am damned tired of having to foot the bill for their irresponsibility, lazyness, and feigned ignorance(you can't be ignorant and be able to sponge off the system)

(Reagan's Welfare Queen was a myth, you know.)

When a company moves offshore they do not reduce prices to the end users. They increase their profits. Most big companies don't even pay income taxes because they are legally running out of a drawer in some Carribean island.

Eventually the middle class will be gone due to outsourcing. That will be the end of the USA.

4980. Are you interested in Ham Radio? Don't be fooled by the Lizards! Here's the FAQ!

A necessary preface.....

(It is becoming increasingly difficult to fly the flag for decency and for civilised behaviour in Radio Hammery. Even the Usenet newsgroups dedicated to the cause have degenerated
into a hotbed of abusive onslaughts by those who ought to know
better; the Nugatory Numpties who boast of an interest exceeding 10, 20, 30, 40 or even 50 years and yet who have proved themselves incapable of even meeting the trivial exam
standards set for 6-year-olds. However, there still exists
the fundamental basis on which Ham Radio is based, and that will never die. This FAQ ("What Is Ham Radio?") will be regularly published and will not be shouted or bullied down. It is important that those of a technical bent, who are the natural seed-corn of Radio Hammery and who gravitate towards us to be the real novitiate, can still find us, (and know that we are still here), their fellows.)

-----ooooo-----

So,.....What is Ham Radio?

Ham Radio is a technical pursuit for those who are interested in the science of radio wave
propagation and who are also interested in the way that their radios function. It has a long-standing tradition of providing a source of engineers who
are born naturals.

Ham Radio awakens in its aficionados a whole-life
fascination with all things technical and gives
an all-abiding curiosity to improve one's scientific knowledge. It's a great swimming pool, please dive in!

This excitement causes a wish to share the experience
with ones fellow man, and shows itself in the gentlemanly traditions of Ham Radio.

Radio Hams are in a unique privileged position in that they can construct and operate their own equipment! No-one else has this privilege. Users, such as broadcasters,
the po lice and armed farces, CBers and mobile phone users have to purchase ready-made gear. Manufacturers
are not licensed to operate their gear. Radio Hams

are qualified to design, build and then
operate their own pieces of equipment. They do this
with gusto, and also repair and modify their own
equipment. This is a privilege well worth the effort
to gain, and one to be jealously guarded.

The excitement that drives a Radio Ham starts with
relatively simple technologies at first, perhaps making
his own Wimshurst machine and primary cells. Small pieces
of test equipment follow, possibly multimeters and signal
generators. Then comes receivers and transmitters. It is with
the latter that communication with like-minded technically motivated people takes off. The scope for technical
development grows with the years
and now encompasses DSP and DDS. There is also a great deal of excitement in the areas of computer programming to
be learnt and applied.

The technical excitement motivates Radio Hams to compete
with each other to determine who has designed and manufactured
the best-quality station. This competitiveness is found in DXing,

-----OOOOO----

However, beware! A Ham Radio licence is such a desirable thing to have that there are large numbers of people who wish to be thought of
as Radio Hams when, in fact, they are nothing of the kind! Usually such people are a variation of the CB Radio hobbyist; they buy their
radios off the shelf and send them back to be
and sneer at those who are; they have no idea how
their radios work inside and have no wish to find out;
they are free with rather silly personal insults.

These CB types engage in the competitive activities
with their Cheque-Book-purchased off-the-shelf radios
in a forlorn effort to prove that they are Radio Hams.

No _REAL_ Radio Hams are deceived by such people!

-----ooooo-----

One infallible way to disambiguate the CB Radio Hobbyist
from the _REAL_ Radio Ham is to solicit their view of the difference between CB Radio and Ham Radio. A Radio Ham will perceive Ham Radio to be a technical pursuit and will perceive CB Radio to be a social communications facility
no different in essence to a land-line telephone or a GSM mobile in the hands of a 6-year-old. Thus a Radio Ham
could also hold a CB licence safe in the knowledge that such a licence says no more about him than having a land-line telephone, whilst continuing to regard Ham Radio as a separate technical pursuit.

A CB Radio hobbyist, on the other hand, sees no difference between a Ham Radio licence and a CB Radio licence. To him, they are sisters-under-the-skin. Wrongly, the CB Radio Hobbyist then tries to classify himself as the equal of the Radio Ham when, in fact, he is nothing of the kind.

Ham Radio is not CB Radio and has no common ground with it! Ham Radio is _THE_ technical pursuit for gentlemen; CB Radio is the operating hobby for those who buy their rigs and equipment off the shelf.

-----ooooo-----

If you are the sort of person who is motivated by a technical interest in how things work; if you took apart malfunctioning clocks, toasters and the like and put them right despite never having seen them working, then a Ham Radio licence is your traditional route! There has never been a shortage of such people, and those who gravitate towards such an interest have always been welcomed into our shacks and their interests fostered. There is not today, nor has there ever been, a need to go out and encourage and press children, children who have never expressed an interest in Ham Radio, to come into our shacks. Such an activity should cause eyebrows to be raised - what normal well-adjusted adults seek the social acquaintance of children?!

-----ooooo-----

Please remember that this FAQ is a _POSITIVE EXHORTATION_ to you to exert yourselves to join our fraternity! (If you find otherwise, then perhaps you are already classing yourself in the mediocre groups of those who are criticised in the FAQ and from whom we _MUST_ dissociate? If so - it's never too late for a re-taxonomisation on your part - there's nothing elitist about us, and we welcome all those who are prepared to put themselves out in order to join our ranks!)

you are probably correct. linguistics is mainly concerned with spoken language, not written. in some languages like English, you'll note that people kind of speak the words out in their brain. other languages like Mandarin seem to be converted directly from characters into ideas.

ok, what burns me up is people claiming they can't learn code. there are languages that are tonal, configurational, have bizarre sounds, that put the object before the subject, that have thousands of characters. 99% of the planet learns their native language!

code is NOT that different than a language. if you must, you can interpret it as tones, and simply write out the tones on a piece of paper and decode them.

i have trouble with high speed B, 6, 1, J. however, you can create a practice regimen that focuses on these.

a trick for contests might be using a spectrograph or MFJ viewer. good good practice is beacons e.g. 10 meters. they are terse text, contain

you sort of have to "decode" what the beacon is talking about.

i hate to play devil's advocate, but i can read CW with spectral analysis software. several of us on the very low bands are doing that.

yes, the chances of some deaf guy "hearing" an SOS is pretty slim.

it's sad that people get alienated from hobbies. it's also a fact of life. i downloaded some composition software, and it turned out i SUCK at making digital music.

i can play the second movement of Moonlight Sonata, but that's about it.

i remember this girl in chemistry class. she studied 5 hours for a test. i studied 10 minutes. my score was 30 points higher than hers. i wasn't necessarily smarter than her, i just knew how to study, and same thing with CW.

i learned Morse Code at age 15. i got up to 25 WPM, perfect copy. i made QSOs, did a few contests, and quit for 9 years.

i now copy at 18 WPM, which makes me think i learned it like it was a language.

some suggestions. use Farnsworth, copying characters at 18 WPM is less annoying.

make QSOs! would you learn a language by using audio CDs, or would you talk to native speakers?

find out what the format of the test QSO is!

i didn't study much for my novice code test. i had no decent tapes, and i had to borrow my dad's computer to use software. computers back then were $2000 and no kid had one.

so anyway, i use Supermorse as recommended by my club. i get to the test, realize my code sucks, and luck out because they do a Supermorse QSO.

it's easy in today's world: free practice MP3s and $50 computers.

if you are contesting or DXing, CW rules.

HF phone contests will drive you insane, esp if you want to win an award.
even 10 meter phone was wall to wall stations from 28.300 to 29.000. i had phased Yagis, and had to go way high, or end up stomping on someone.

if you want to run DX, good luck with 100 watts on SSB.

That may be what someone told you, but it was not the reason. The reason was that it was part of an overall "radio education" and it was one of the fundamentals of radio even in the 1950s.

That's absolute bullshit. I build and modify my own CB equipment. I know of hams that don't even know ohms law much less how to build equipment. I see lots of off the shelf ham gear for sale proving that your post is nothing more that propaganda. You perpetuate the myth that CBers are too stupid to obtain a license, you are wrong.
You post this to continue the rift between hams and CBers, fine by me, many CBers become hams, others like myself avoid it due to closed minded thinking like yours. Maybe if hams openly welcomed CBers into the fold instead of constantly insulting us, the ham radio hobby will survive. Instead the CBers will sit back and laugh as the FCC sells off your bandwidth to the highest bidder. We DO have a common ground, you just refuse to see it.

Back when I was young and interested I lost my desire to learn code when I started monitoring the ham bands. It all seemed too formal, and then like it is now, you have a large segment that think you are trash if you don't have the highest obtainable license. Even this thread proves it. You have a large contingent hell bent on having CW testing with any class, even though I never plan to use CW. I could get my Tech ticket, but then all I'm going to hear is that I'm a no-code tech. I rather be a CBer as we have no cast system.

Besides, it will be a great day when the code is dropped......the rush of the dumb CB'er onto the bands will be funny as hell to watch.Couldn't happen

You're a tough guy.

During a more civilised time a company went into business to provide jobs and make profits and to be part of a community. Nowadays corporations are extranational, have no local ties and just milk markets dry and move on.

Corporations pay way less than half th cost of running governments, even though they are the major beneficieries of what governments provide. This is because we let them write their own rules.

First not every homeless and hungry person is there by their own choice. There are those that the system chrushes and grinds into pieces just for beign at the wrong place at the wrong time. The welfare system does work. Yes decision and actions in all our past make differences. Yes some want to live the way they do. Somewhat out on the fringe of society.

What you pay is part of doing business. I bet you pass most if not all Corporations do pay taxes. The expense of taxes is often passed on where feasable. Often these are in higher selling prices. Often taxes do intrude on profits. When they do, there are steps taken to regain that profit. Outsourcing is a means of regaining profit. Cutting benefits and maintaining salaries is another. There are other means also.

click short pause clack = dit
click long pause clack = dah

i think it would be hard to decode vs listening to a modern receiver.

i believe spark gap would be useless in a rescue situation.

I don't think your going to see that big of a rush. What attracts a lot of people to CB is price. I don't want to spend a ton of money on ham gear and I don't have the time to build it. I think all that will happen is that the lower portion of 10 meters will get the traffic with all of the "export" radios in circulation.

I have problems with most characters of four or more elements length.
Exceptions are <period> and <Q>, for some reason. As I have said here, after hearing dit-dah-dah-dit identified, whatever it is, I cannot subsequently hear it and know what it is. I think my own first name initial, <J> is some combination of three-and-one or one-and-three, but I can't remember it. Oh yeah -- I know <V> because the dit-dit-dit-dah sounds like the 1812 overture.

I dial a telephone with two fingers -- one pushing the buttons and one holding my place in the phone book, since I have to go back and look at the number repeatedly. Yes, I do memorize phone numbers, but I may invert the digits when I try to dial them. This is a royal pain in the ass.

When I joined the Navy in 1962, one of our tests was for clerical skill, which involved inspecting columns of numbers and calling the entries on each line either ALIKE or DIFFERENT. I scored a 35, lower than anybody I ever met. I wanted to be a Yeoman (clerical duties). Instead, they sent me to ET school and I've never looked back.

I'll read any responses, but I think I'm pretty well talked out on this one.

I've been using RG-8 for most of my comms. Not a problem so far. I notice that my transmit is much faster than my receive in that I can talk to stations several minutes before they answer me.

Since my RG-8 runs uphill, I am assuming that my outgoing power takes a bit longer to get to the antenna. Meanwhile, the incoming signal comes down the antenna wire and blocks out some of my outgoing signal. Since the incoming signal is running down hill it is faster than the uphill signal.

Is there some way I can get around this? Can I change the angle of the uphill wire to slow down my transmissions? Can I make my downhill wire longer so it will slow down the incoming transmissions? Or should I make the uphill transmission wire longer and talk slower?

Roger

You need to switch to mini 8 coax to create a restriction. Smaller wire means slower transmission. If that doesn't get you close enough, buy an incoming signal resistor. You will have to calculate the impedance for the desired frequency using this formula: 0u812.Ic divided by xtc% to the 666th power, multiply by your callsign and subtract the round root of the number of cw wpm that you can copy and that will get you the value of the incoming signal resistor. Or you can just use 2 coat hangers with tin foil on the back to make it directional. Add more hangers and you can make 20 or 30 element beams.

You'll get no argument from me. The US tends to do as they please regardless of what the rest of the world thinks.
I remember a time when most countries liked the US and it's citizens, but those days are long gone.

I wouldn't go that far, but the FCC all but quit policing 11 meters back in the late 70s. A couple of years ago the FCC gave local law enforcement the power to enforce the laws governing 11 meters, but most of the police in my area have no interest or knowledge to do anything about it. I have a better chance of getting in trouble spitting on the sidewalk, and I don't have a sidewalk as I live in the sticks.

Did I mention that I , Roger Wiseman, use a forged email address over Mark Morgan's name to spam you guys?
Damned if I didn't forget to wipe my Earthlink headers from the spams, so forgive me please.

I also humbly ask Mark Morgan to not contact my Earthlink account to post a complaint. I, Roger Wiseman, will assure Mark and Lloyd Davies that I will never again post comments over their names or IP addresses.
I apologize for the less than legal activities I fomented and I wish to assure Mark and Lloyd that will transgress no more. I want to make ammends. I want to make friends.

I am offering an olive branch of friendship and peace. Life is lonely in Glendale and I could use some friends.

You guys can stop picking on me any day now. I need a respite from your attacks. I am tired of hiding behind my curtains, tired of not being able to answer my phone, tired of stalkers knocking on my front door and tired of looking over my shoulder every time I go out to get my mail.
It is your fault, Geno, that I am afraid to even go to the grocery store and your fault Arf! Arf! that I am afraid of losing yet another account.
I don't know who sent me all those pizzas two months ago, but I am going to blame Lloyd Davies for it. I blame Lloyd for everything anyway and I am tired of Lloyd hanging around my neighborhood and listening in on my telephone conversations. Did you guys know that Lloyd hides in my neighbor's garage and listens to my thoughts? I know he does, because I've seen Lloyd peeking through the gable vent when I go outside. Just last week I went to the neighbor and told him Lloyd was hiding in his garage and the neighbor let me look inside. Of course by that time Lloyd had run off, but I know he was there because I saw his eye peering at me. The neighbor has since locked his garage, but now Lloyd hides in the tree two doors down and stares and stares at me for hours on end. I keep my curtains pulled tight, but Lloyd is always there, listening and stalking. I have to whisper into my phone because I know Lloyd puts his ear next to the telephone junction box and listens in.
Just last week I went to the 7-Eleven store for a Slurpee (I like the guy who works there because we give each other purple Slurpees under the counter) and there was Lloyd, hiding behind the magazine rack. He held a Superman comic book up in front of his face, but I KNOW it was Lloyd.
Why don't I call the police, you ask? Well, the Glendale cops don't like me, for starters. Lloyd and Geno have sent so many false complaints to the cops that they think I am the one at fault. Geno even sent a letter to the Chief, Norm Stenger, that said I accused Chief Stenger of being crooked. Geno even faked a letter that said I called the Chief a fat cocksucker.
And for the rest of you lispers, I don't take medications for my mental disabilities. The voices I hear are the real thing. If you want proof I'll record them for you so you can hear them for yourselves. You wait, the voices I will record all come from one person. Lloyd Davies.
Tomorrow I will go to the local Sears store and buy a microphone for my computer. I'll hook it up, put it next to my ear and record the voices for all of you to hear. That will prove to you that Lloyd is behind all of this. Maybe then you guys will learn that I, Roger Wiseman, am not deranged. Those voices are real, and I intend to prove it once and for all.
Wait! Did you hear that? I did. I KNEW it! Lloyd is prowling around under my windows even now. He has his shoes off so I won't hear him walking on my grass, but I know he is out there. I can hear him breathing. He listens to my keyboard and knows what I am typing, so I better make some typo errors just to throw him off.

And the voices are back again. I hate those voices. I'll be back later, but for now I am going to go hide in the bedroom and beat my head against the wall until the voices stop.
I sure could use a Thorazine tab about now.

Hi,

My name is Lloyd Austin Davies. I have been dick sucking for 31 years.
I have given blow jobs to blacks, whites, hispanics, orientals. I give blow jobs regardless if you are gay, straight or bi.
I learned to give blowjobs when my daddy Ray stuck my lips on his hard cock. I even have my own usenet message board, alt.cocksucker.lardass.lloyd-davies. My preference is for boys under the age of 12 although I'll fuck any child. I am HIV-positive so I service the aids crowd. I don't charge. If you like to use my services, please give me a call right away

Greetings, I recently became the NCS for a net that checks in about 250 people in about 2 hours. I can't seem to remember that many call signs or names and locations so I'm looking for a program that can use the suffix of call signs to look them up from a database that I can input as I go along, it doesn't need to connect to the internet. I could only hope that it would show multiple call signs for the same suffix and I would also like it to show associated call signs such as a spouse's call. Maybe asking for too much but appreciate any help. If it could keep track of how many check in for that day and look up a suffix without checking that person in (did AB0SI check in today?)it would be perfect. If you have any questions or suggestions feel free to contact me off line.

argueing no simply countering the dangerous sort of libel that builds up if not answered to under "if there is smoke there is fire" theory sinc e after Wismen worked himself into a frenzy abotu me resulting

he makes about resulted in some being beaten to a pulp just for sharing the name "Mark Morgan" I decided it was msitake not to adress such libel can't say I have worked out an espgood method but it imporeves

The General Assembly is expected to approve the council recommendation on June 28th. That means on June 28th DXers will have a new DXCC entity to work. The latest country to join the UN was Timor-Leste, which became the 191st UN Member State on 27th September 2002. For more details, visit it the following Web sites:

QSL INFO AND NEWS.....
Jean-Michel, F6AJA, announced after a very long delay, the CE0Z cards have arrived. All QSL requests for Europe have been answered except for some requests without SAE and some with multiple QSL requests. He is still waiting for the CE9/F2JD cards... be patient!

MORE ON CE0Z QSLS. Bob, N2OO, reports: "The CE0Z QSL cards have been printed AND are in the USA, and enroute to me at this moment. We have pre-processed the log so the cards will start to go out 'steadily' once they arrive here. I don't expect that to happen for another couple of weeks. So, please be patient everyone! Since we have more cards to deal with, we will not be quite as quick as Jean-Michel! (good job J-M)"

QSL ROUTE CHANGE. Gary, K7ZD, reports that "Due to increasing serious health problems (XYL) I will no longer be managing any activities by Tony, HK1AR,...etc/W4OI, from this date forward (18th, June 2006). Please send ALL further HK QSL requests to Tony, W4OI. I can and will answer all requests for 5K5Z, HK0/HK1AR and HK1AR for QSOS made BEFORE 09 FEB 2006. Reminder - QSOs made with HK1AR between February 10-21st, 2006, go to Girts, YL2KL, who was the guest operator there and has his own logs." Gary still has logs/cards for 3B9R (APR 1999) and C56V (1993) operations: 3B9R 10-160M Direct Only (NO BUREAU) to K7ZD
3B9R Bureau to AH0W
3B9R 6M to Ned, AA7A
C56V 1993 - Direct or Bureau

QSL Manager Alan, VK4AAR, advises OPDX readers that "they should be VERY CAREFUL when QSLing and sending IRCs for return postage costs. The large IRCs have an expiry date printed on them and won't be accepted if they are past that date, but my local PO (post office) has been lenient with me up to now. I would imagine that, in view of this, the older (small) ones will no longer be accepted by the post office, and they will be of no use to me either. I suggest that DXers send U.S. dollars, if possible. A new IRC in USA costs more than a dollar in the post office, anyway." Alan is the QSL Manager for: 9V�A, 9V1DX, C21RH, KH2VM, P29RH, V63PD, VI�ANARE, VK�MM (Macquarie), VK6AN (OC-266), VK6BM (OC-234), VK6BSI (OC-243), VK6DHI (OC-206), VK6LI (OC-071), VK8AN/6 (OC-154), VK8AN/8 (OC-229), VK8AV/3 (OC-136), VK8DP, VK8MI (OC-173), VU3RSB, VP2V/W3HQ and (YJ8AA, ZK2JJ, ZK2PJ logs are now closed). If YOU need a QSL Manager, just E-mail Alan at: al-mee@aapt.net.au

SV9, CRETE. Mick, G8VHB, will be active as SV9/G8VHB from Crete (EU-015) from September 27th until October 9th. Look for activity on all bands 20-10 meters using only 100 watts and a rotary dipole antenna.

T6, AFGHANISTAN (Update). Mika, OH6MKL, is now active as T66T until the end of July. Suggested frequencies are:
CW - 1820, 3520, 7020, 10120, 14020, 18090, 21020, 24900 and 28020 kHz SSB - 1880, 3680, 7080, 14180, 18150, 21250, 24980 and 28495 kHz.

VP2, MONTSERRAT. Graham, M0AEP, will be active as VP2MDD between July 1-14th. Activity will be on 80-6 meters with 200 watts into a windom antenna, on SSB and CW. His main focus will be on 6 meters on SSB and CW with 350 watts plus a 5 element yagi. QSL via M0ARP (QRZ.com).

VP2, MONTSERRAT. Art, WA7NB (formarly N2NB), will be active as VP2MDY, October 25-31st. He will be participating in this year's CQWW SSB Contest. Outside of the contest, look for Art to be active on 160-6 meters CW, SSB and PSK31. QSL via WA7NB.

Dime/Z35Z and Szabi/HA1DRJ will join Laci and Zoli during the upcoming VHF/UHF Contests from Grid KN12DC on Mnt. Podrzi Konj (1400m ASL). QSLs for Z38R and Z38C go to HA1RS via the HA QSL Bureau or to his QRZ.com address. Full colored QSL cards are expected to be ready at the end of August.

ZD8, ASCENSION ISLAND. Andy, G0JLX, is expected to operate from Ascension Island (AF-003) as ZD8AD between July 1-23rd (dates are approximate at this stage). Activity will be on all HF bands, SSB and CW. QSL via G0JLX, direct or by the bureau.

Like their DXpedition to the South Pacific earlier this year, they will be operating mostly CW with some RTTY and SSB, on 80-10 meters, and using lightweight rigs, low power, and vertical antennas.

ZL8, KERMADEC ISLANDS. Look for Jacky, ZL3CW, to be active from Raoul Island (OC-039) starting around June 27-28th. He plans to be there for about one week as ZM8CW. Activity will be limited to his spare time. He will concentrate on the lower bands. QSL via ZL1AMO.

You are an obsession
I cannot sleep
I am a possession
Unopened at your feet
There is no balance
No equality
Be still
I will not accept defeat

I will have you
Yes I will have you
I will find a way and I will have you
Like a butterfly
A wild butterfly
I will collect you and capture you

You are an obsession
You're my obsession
Who do you want me to be
To make you sleep with me
You are an obsession
You're my obsession
Who do you want me to be
To make you sleep with me

Of all the techie things I could relate to, here's something I never thought would come up: I WAS a janitor at NSA. I was stationed there 1970-1972 as a Sailor and during my last 8 months, I worked as a janitor after hours to make enough money for the down payment on my first house. All the janitors needed to be cleared, which made us military folks shoo-ins for these jobs.

The pay was OK for your average part time job. Nothing special, but I was happy for the $1800 I banked in less than a year. (5% of 33,000 used to get a family into a house. Not today.)

My first wife still has that house and it's worth $700,000.

Try offering two outfielders and a pitcher to be named later :-)

Seriously, other than her half of the house (her current hubby got on the deed a few years ago for a re-fi), almost nothing. I divorced her in 1981 and traded away my half of the equity for no claim by her on my future earnings (meaning no spousal support and no splitting of my Navy retirement). She took a second to buy a business, which supported her, although she did not run it well and she took a loss when she sold it.

I doubt she ever saved a penny. She draws a Social Security disability pension for several ailments, real or imagined.

I fared better ;-)

This ain't Lloyd. It's someone who missess the "good ole days" before R.H. came along and busted up all the radio-fun that was occuring
on a daily basis on 20M and 40M.
I mean remember the fun times we all had listening to The Mike and Judy Show, Raincoat Charlie, the jewish midget from Texas, his utterly insane neighbor
in Nochadoches (sp?), the Kind Jewish Injun, Sponge Boy Bucket Mouth, The many incantations of the famous Dancing Chickenman and of course our all time favorite....The Red Panty Man ! ("..I got my high heel shoes, got my red panties on, I'm goin to a bar..etc")
All of you guys in here have the capacity to LIVEN UP 14.275 mHz to an extent where it could become the MOST POPULAR freq in ham radio just like 14.313 was Years ago.
I am also sure that the current bunch of sour grapes in there would welcome you all, esp that kook in Canada who's been sniffing too much oil sands up in Alberta.........

Since I don't do CW too much anymore, I have similar problems, and I've

Gay pride parades held across nation By ADAM GOLDMAN, Associated Press Writer
Mon Jun 26, 6:03 AM ET

NEW YORK - Drag queens in knee-high boots, kids with two dads and New York City's first openly gay city council speaker were among hundreds of thousands attending gay pride parades across the nation, weeks after a vicious attack on a popular gay singer and the 25th anniversary of the start of the AIDS epidemic.

Tens of thousands of spectators lined Fifth Avenue on Sunday for the city's annual parade, withstanding intermittent rain and turning the route into a sea of rainbows with colorful floats and lavish costumes.

"Everyone else has a chance to express their affection freely, and for one day in New York, you can be free and not feel ashamed or embarrassed," said 42-year-old Roberto Hermosilla, from Miami, attending his ninth gay pride parade.

On San Francisco's Market street, thousands of festively dressed people looked on as marching bands, dancers and floats bearing corporate logos streamed by. On one float, a bearded man wearing a white lace miniskirt and fishnet stockings sang Madonna's "Like a Virgin." A half-dozen men dressed in underwear and top hats danced behind him.

The parades also had a political message, with parade-goers bearing slogans about gay marriage, AIDS, and discrimination.

"It's to have a good time, but also to remember the issues out there," said Jane Woodman, 26, in San Francisco. "There's still a lot of work to be done," she said, noting the national debate raging over whether gays should have a legal right to marry.

The New York parade marked the very public and triumphant return of singer Kevin Aviance, who rolled down Fifth Avenue atop a fake pachyderm and a circus-themed float just weeks after the drag queen was viciously beaten and suffered a broken jaw. Police have charged four young men with assaulting the artist while yelling anti-gay slurs.

The theme of New York's Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender Pride March was "The Fight for Love and Life," but there was plenty of talk about hate following the Aviance attack. The New York Police Department said reports of anti-gay bias crimes totaled 25 through mid-June - compared with 19 over the same period in 2005.

"A few hateful homophobes will not set us back," said City Council Speaker Christine Quinn, who marched in the parade. In January, Quinn became the first woman and first openly gay person to lead the council.

Organizations that marched in San Francisco included Rocket Dog Rescue, a volunteer group that helps abandoned dogs find homes. One marcher with the group walked with a pit bull that was dressed in a rainbow tutu.

In Ohio on Saturday, thousands gathered for the 25th Stonewall Columbus parade. Michael Eblin, marching in his first parade, followed a black Hummer pulling a float of men.

"For the first time, I'm going to be part of a majority," the 18-year-old Eblin said just before the parade began.

Along the route, protesters held large signs reading, "Homo sex is sin" and "God abhors you," while a boy in blue tie-dye held up another: "2 Moms. 2 Dads. Too Cool."

The parades commemorate the Stonewall uprising of 1969, when gay bar patrons resisted a police raid.

Associated Press writer Dan Goodin in San Francisco contributed to this report.

You seem really upset. I can only guess that the reason you're posting is because you messed with your CB and it's in the repair shop again. You CB'ers need to learn to keep the covers on your rigs and not tamper with the electronics inside. You're not smart enough to know how they work.

Hm-m-m. I can hear that in my head. ... thought it was the 1812 Overture.

BT

Playing the selection is mighty convincing: Ol' Ludwig pops off some V's right at the start. I do not seem to have the 1812 Overture handy, so here I tread ever-so-lightly ... not being much for knowing good music. I can run bits of 1812 through my head, too, but not much. (I just get started and run out of headroom.) I shall seek it out. TKS & 73

Hello,

I have been racking my brain trying to locate a back-issue of either "CQ" or "QST" from the last year or so.

The article was about a guy who designed his own software to use in conjunction with packet radio, to support a bike race. Does anyone reccollect what article I'm referring to? I would be very greatful if you could steer me to it. It actually was a two part article spanning two issues.

Thank you

This message was not posted by Mr. Davies. No way Hosay.

Speaking of Mr. Davies - we wonder where he is lately.

He hasn't been here in years.

Maybe he can stop by and give us an update on how his TinyTenna is working.

KK4TL said that.

I know what you mean about Elmering. Many of the new hams had to Elmer the old CW only hams who had no idea how to operate a computer or even use all the great new digital modes. Some of the dinos had trouble trying to figure out the solid state rigs. They kept looking around for things to tune like it was some boat anchor tube rig - LOL!!!

It's amazing how the dinos can operate a key, but they can't get the hang of a mouse. We eventually had to give up. Can't teach the old dogs new tricks so the younger and newer hams used the digital modes and the old dinos stuck to their CW.

Although the CW types were amazed how PSK31 could be copied even when you could not hear the other station. They admitted that you can't copy CW if you cannot hear it.

I think we made a lot of progress on FD. Finally the dinos admitted that there are modes that are better and more capable than CW.

One old guy even said we should give up on the CW testing and test new hams how to use a computer and the new digital modes and that was more relevant for today's ham radio.

Actully, POWs made use of "tap code" to communicate. Check

Same is true of some musicians. The older ones just don't get computers, but they sure can wail up a Force 5 hurricane on those old analog axes.

Teach kids to cut-and-paste lip-sync trash with a mouse before we teach them about JL Hooker? Nah, that's not for me.
I'll hang with the old bands.

Hi Mike

It wasnt perhaps "Paket" was it? I remember that this had a logging mode for some kind of sports function.

Dont know if it ever got into CQ/QST. It was written by a VK back in the early 90's. Havent tried to find its distribution point. It was primarily for running under DOS and DesqView with TNC only devices (ie via a serial port)

I've been looking for a flat black colored person but have been unable to find any. I also have not found anyone who is white as a sheet of white paper. Alas, all I have found are people who vary in shades of brown earthtones. By looking at a spectrometer display, it is actually hard to tell one from another.

So lets get this straight. The above poster is a "sicko" for doing nothing more than posting statements YOU have made at various times.

YOU claim you are not sick even though you admit to putting dicks in your mouth and ass and who knows where. Yes indeed Markie, you are sick and twisted. YOU are part of the reason our society has declined.

Boy oh boy have you got your work cut out for yourselves there !!!!
Hams have got to be the WORST when it comes to clothing with the only possible exception of the people who go to model railroad and train shows. I've even been to a few NASCAR meets and the folks there (as redneck as they are) are 500% better dressed than the hams at hamfests were.

Any really experienced ham knows that each and every mode has conditions under which it is "the best". Ever try to work PSK when the auroras are running wild? Digital won't get through but CW will and occasionally even voice will get through even though all the digital modes fail.

I'd like to use Echolink for an evening of good, clean fun. If any of you would like to contact me, please let me know.
I would like to sit back ,relax, have a drink or two, and chat about the latest shows at the Lavender Lad lounges in Wheeling. (some of the crossdressers are very pretty)
I don't get out often, mostly because I don't have a car and partly because I have little money.
I live in an upscale area of Glendale, West Virginia and am a single, 50 yr. old white male who owns his own home.(actually..I inherited it)
My interests revolve around cross dressing, stalking Lloyd Davies, cross dressing, and designing violet outfits with frilly lace that compliments my pockmarked cheeks.
I have a secondary interest in Amateur Radio, but do not often use it save for jamming someone from time to time.
I can be found at home most nights, though I will never answer the door and will hardly ever answer my telephone. You can call me at 304-845-0109 and leave a message. If you sound sexy enough, I may just pick up the phone and let you whisper in my ear.

While I have a cell number, I give it out to only the most intimate of friends. Meanwhile, if you want to go for a spin around the Ferry (Fairy) Wheel, drop me a line and I will get back to you. I'll give you a spin you won't forget.

Just call a foreign country on your cell phone. If you ask them to 'Please QSL', you might have to tell whoever it is you talk to what that means.

If they won't QSL, we can use your phone bill as proof of contact, but it's not as good as a real QSL card because how do we know that you didn't just babble into someone's answering machine for a minute or two.

The first DX award no-codes can try for and is easy and cheap to get is the CAC Award (Called all Continents) and is very similar to the WAC (Worked all Continents.) If you're really really new to radio, you might want to start with CAS first. (Called all States)

Yes, I can get the message there quicker in a bottle, than the time it takes an appliance operator to get their rig back from a repair shop.

I know you're right.

They where doing great until the computers crashed then the new hams looked at us old hams, blank stares on their faces wondering what to do. They thought Field day was over at the point. Then us dino's took over and showed them what ham radio really was. Some nickle extra's even said they were going practice building their code skills again. They saw you can work stations on code that you can't work on phone or PSK31. We taught them how to solder on PL-259s and tune portable antenna & trim wire antennas.

We laughed when they lifted up the tri-bander and then had to take it down again to connect up the coax. That was funny.

ever seen your call. You certainly don't make it obvious, which is your

Okay, but we want to know just what it is you do beside disrupt the news groups. You and Wiseman ought to go to an unused news group (there are plenty) and continue your childish pissing contest there. May I suggest alt.photography.mark-morgan? It's essentially unused, and it already has your name on it. You could cross post to alt.asshole.roger-wiseman, and each of you tards could scream at the other from his own news group while simultaneously leaving the real amateur radio enthusiasts alone.

If you plan to killfile him, you will want this list of 15 nyms. He has already infected RRAP and RRCB. Once you respond he will not stop humping your leg.

Your use of the word 'target' is interesting.

I'll follow that by quoting you,

Then you said

I don't like self-appointed net police but like anonymous posters I have to tolerate them. The Supreme Court has ruled that identifying oneself is not a requirement for freedom of speech, so being an anonymous poster is legal. 'Targeting' them is tantamount to stalking, which is not legal, Mr. Net Cop.

Thanks for posting those. I'd like to see that list posted periodically as new nyms are discovered.

The reason that the dork has so many nyms is so that he can exceed Google's daily posting limits by moving from one free account to another (he has said so himself). He abuses Google so that he can abuse our news groups. What a fine, upstanding guy. NOT.

Thanks for posting those. I'd like to see that list posted periodically as new nyms are discovered.

The reason that the dork has so many nyms is so that he can exceed Google's daily posting limits by moving from one free account to another (he has said so himself). He abuses Google so that he can abuse our news groups. What a fine, upstanding guy. NOT.

Do you remember when you last made a CW contact and Did you enjoy it?

-or-

You don't want to soil yourself by using CW. You would rather send potty mouth text messages on rrap and the main HF radio in your shack is a CB with an echo mic connected to it.

We're in deep shit when CW goes away if you people are what modernized hams looks like.

OK, you can go back to potty mouth flaming each other again. 73

Let's be honest, the only thing you can repair is some old piece of junk tube rig because the technology is so simple. You could never repair a modern rig, because like most dinos, you have ever evolved into the new technology because out of fear, you cling to what is old and comfortable.

Wow, you guys must have been part of the most ignorant group of individuals ever put on this earth using the most crappy computers and equipment. All the computers crashed? Wow, how could that have happened?

I am surprised that the newbies are still using ham radio after hanging around with you dinos. Computers broke down and you could not help fix them. That's right, the computers don't run on tubes and that is the extent of your knowledge as dinos.

Now anyone that uses PSK knows that you can work a station that you cannot hear with the human ear. Anyone that knows CW knows that you have to hear CW in order to copy it. So as a dino, you are showing your ignorance of technology and probably have never heard, seen or used PSK or you would never have made that statement.

My Field Day group had a good laugh when I pointed out your message to them. They said you obviously don't know what you are talking about - at least concerning anything modern.

So you old, used up, worthless dinos laughed at the newbies, belittled them, and you could not fix or use anything modern. And you think those newbies are going to stick with ham radio? Probably not. Old thinking buggy whip hams like yourself need to stay locked in your shacks talking only with other dinos about your illnesses and the like, and stay away from the younger technology savy crowd as they might be really interested in ham radio and your old crap is going to scare them away.

They don't want to learn about buggy whips when they are interested in driving a modern car - get it old timer?

In this months QST there is another fine example of an American radio amateur's mobile set-up (page 71, N6TEB's vehicle).
It is the sort of thing many amateurs probably dream about.

However, in the UK, it would probably break a dozen "construction and use" laws, nothing to do with radio but related to vehicle safety. Are there no such laws in the USA?

I'm visit the USA in the summer and hope to see some of these vehicles in the flesh (so to speak!).

In view of the FCC's recent mistakes with regard to BPL, and in view of the Supreme Court's decision that the FCC overstepped its authority when it allowd the broadcast flag, I and others have come to completely mistrust that government organization. We are now mobilizing to resist the FCC until Congress intervenes to correct the situation.

Toward that end, we have established the K1MAN Defense Fund and will soon be seeking donations. If you share my belief that the FCC is derelict in its duity, please help amateur radio by contributing to the fund. Just as soon as the ARRL completes the paperwork to establish itself as custodian of the K1MAN Defense Fund, further details will be posted both here and in the pages of QST.

The FCC must not be allowed to continue its abuse of the radio services at the behest of Washington lobbyists.

I know you're right.

These new modernized hams want everything to be easy just like flipping the on-off switch on an appliance. We try and tell them that ham radio is more than just operating an appliance, but they won't listen. Then when murphy's law kicks in they don't know how to deal with it. I feel sorry for them, but it's really not their fault that licensing has been dumbed down over the years. The phonies did notice after we put the broken computers in the dumpster that the bands sounded much better without all the computer generated noise on their receivers. And their contacts per minute increased. They realize now that when equipment fails it's nice to have skills you can fall back on that will let you keep communicating. Especially important during emergencies. Hams wouldn't look good if during an emergency we couldn't communicate.

And how many times has that happened to you? I'll bet never. You're too smart to smoke your finals. Normally when I hear someone lost their finals it was a result of operator error, or an act of stupidity.
